Sentence Of Year And Day Given To O'Malley

Must Also Pay $5,000 Fine For Tax Evasion

KANSAS CITY, Hay 27—(AP)—R. Emmet O'Malley, ousted Missouri insurance superintendent, was sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary today to serve a year and a day while his political chief, Tom Pendergast is doing a 15 month term.

Both pleaded guilty to indictments charging they evaded federal income taxes in 1935 and 1936 on $377,500 "bribe money" they received for compromising in favor of risk firms the $9,500,000 Missouri fire insurance rate case.

Both were ordered to surrender before 2 p. m. Monday to start their sentences.

"They went down together," Henry Dillingham, United States marshal, commented," "so I guess they can go up together."

Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis called the insurance case payoff "bribe money" as he passed sentence on O'Malley and defended his sentence on Pendergast last Monday. O'Malley admitted he failed to pay income tax on $62,500 and Pendergast admitted a dodge on $443,550 in the two years. This included $315.000 paid for his influence by risk companies.

William G. Boatright, attorney for O'Malley, told the court the former insurance superintendent "was guilty of loyalty to a friend and at no time asked for any of the money for himself," but the judge asserted O'Malley "betrayed Missouri" and announced the sentence.

Fine of $5,000

Besides the prison term, O'Malley was fined $5,000. A two year sentence was announced by Judge Otis on a second count but he suspended this and ordered him on probation for three years, to start at the conclusion of the prison term. He also must pay the delinquent taxes with penalty and interest, amounting to $13,501.

Pendergast must pay $10,000 fine, stay on probation for five years after his release and pay delinquent taxes, penalty and interest, totalling $430,000.

At the prison Monday Pendergast and his political pawn will find a number of members of their Democratic organization serving sentences for vote frauds in the 1936 elections. The election day activities first brought government attention to the machine and started the cleanup campaigns by federal and state officials which have threatened to destroy the Pendergast organization whose influence spread from

Mrs. Myers Held In Poison Case

GREENVILLE, Mo., May 27—(AP)—Sombre and silent, Mrs. Louise Myers, 42, today was ordered held without bail for trial in August on charges of poisoning her husband.

A crowd of nearly 1,000 Ozark mountain residents—one of the largest ever to attend a Wayne county arraignment—tried to jam into the justice of the peace office of George W. Babcock.

Mrs. Myers, unrepresented by counsel, sat silently through the reading of a statement Sheriff C. L. Rubbottom said she had signed, detailing how a slow-acting but deadly poison was put in a quart of tomato wine belonging to her husband, Grover M. Myers, 54, because "he was mean to me."

The original murder charge named four persons, but was dismissed on motion of Prosecutor Roy W. McGhee as to the other three—Mrs. Moneda Cook, 22, Oscar Franklin Stroup, 39, and Arley Hemp, 30.

McGhee immediately refiled separate murder counts against Stroup and Mrs. Cook, releasing Hemp. Under state law, persons charged jointly can not testify against each other. Babcock set June 6 as the date for preliminaries for Stroup and Mrs. Cook.

The alleged confession said Stroup and Mrs. Cook, neighbors, were present when the homemade wine was poisoned at the Myers home in Gravelton, Mo.

Four witnesses testified at the preliminary, including Dr. O. A. Myers, county health commissioner and brother of the dead man. Coroner Clint Wilson said he ordered Myers' body disinterred after authorities became suspicious. State Patrolmen B. F. Graham and Percy Little testified that Mrs. Myers signed the statement introduced in evidence. Mrs. Myers, Mrs. Cook and Stroup were returned to the Wayne County jail.

Risk Settlement Be Reopened In Federal Court

Three Judges To Pass On Charge Made Of Frauds

KANSAS CITY, May 27—(AP)—A three-judge federal court here Monday will reopen the 1935 Missouri fire insurance rate case settlement, described by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark as the "nefarious O'Malley compromise."

Counsel for the state insurance department, on orders of the governor, will ask the court to cite for contempt R. E. O'Malley, former insurance superintendent, T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City democratic boss, "and others yet to be determined," for fraud allegedly practiced upon the court in procuring the settlement.

The court, Stark said, "will have complete power to investigate all charges of bribery used in connection with the compromise."

Pendergast and O'Malley have pleaded guilty and will start serving prison sentences Monday for evasion of income taxes on a $440,000 payoff in the insurance compromise. The government charges Pendergast received $315,000, O'Malley $62,500 and A. L. McCormack of St. Louis, then president of the Missouri Insurance Agents Association, $62,500. McCormack has not been indicted.

Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis, in sentencing O'Malley today, asserted the former insurance superintendent was "bribed" to make the settlement.

"For thirty thousand pieces of silver he betrayed Missouri," Judge Otis said. "The tax he attempted to evade was on the bribe

F. M. Truitt Is Injured As Flyer Derailed

Engine Overturns And Fireman Is Seriously Hurt

A broken rail is believed to have been the cause of the derailment of Missouri-Kansas-Texas passenger train, known as Katy Flyer No. 6, at 4:18 o'clock Saturday morning near Rhineland, Missouri. F. M. Truitt, 1002 South Massachusetts avenue, this city was engineer and Dick Snell, New Franklin, fireman were the only persons injured.

The large engine turned over, and caused several of the cars of the train to be derailed, but none of the passengers or other members of the train crew were injured.

The train had been slowed by Engineer Truitt to about forty miles per hour to make a curve when the accident occurred. The engine rolled over on its side breaking its connection with the baggage car, but did pull it to one side derailing it and causing other cars to leave the rail.

Mr. Truitt and Fireman Snell were taken to the St. Mary's hospital in Jefferson City in an ambulance where medical attention is being rendered. Mr. Truitt received painful scalds on his legs from the knees down, while Mr. Snell, a former Sedalian, received a severe head injury and his condition is considered serious.

A wrecker from from New Franklin went to the scene and began clearing up the wreckage. The tracks were cleared within a few hours and traffic resumed.

Mrs. Truitt, daughter Miss Dorothy and granddaughter, Miss Rosemary Truitt, drove to Jefferson City from Sedalia Saturday morning and were met there by another daughter, Mrs. George L. Scott and Mr. Scott, of St. Louis. All returned to Sedalia Saturday evening, but plan to go back to Jefferson City today.

Quints Be Five Years Old Today

CALLANDER, Ont., May 26.—(Canadian Press) — The Dionne quintuplets were still so enthralled today by their meeting with the king and queen last Monday that they didn't bother much about tomorrow being their fifth birthday.

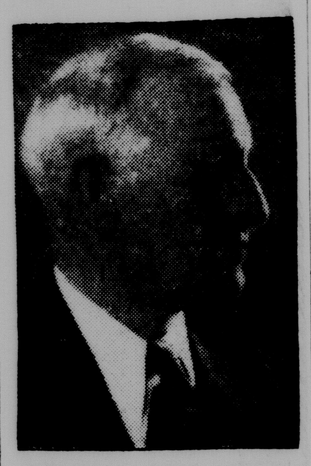

Preparations were underway, however, for a big white cake with five candles—one each for the sisters to blow out.

The five little girls will be hostesses in their nursery home to a small family party including their father, mother and seven brothers and sisters as well as the nursery staff and their physician, Allan Roy Dafoe.

The quintuplets' first trip away from home, the 220-mile journey to Toronto for a brief meeting with King George and Queen Elizabeth, had no ill effect on the children's health.

Marie is under the delusion that a bridge their train crossed before entering Toronto was the "London bridge" she's heard so much about at playtime.

Intricate Plan To Raise Sub

May Take Week For Recovery Of The 26 Dead

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 27.—An intricate plan for raising the $4,000,000 submarine Squalus and its crew of 25 dead—a plan so complicated it may take a week or more to execute—was thrown into high gear today with 60 of the navy's best divers working in relays at the task.

"Keep at it day and night until the job is done. There will be no Sundays or holidays until the Squalus is raised."

These, in effect, were the orders assigned to one of the most delicate submarine jobs in history.

The return from Washington by fast navy plane of two submarine experts—Commander A. I. McKee and A. R. McCann—with the approved plan of operation was the signal for speeding up the work. Shortly before noon, almost simultaneous with the landing of McKee and McCann, the first relay of divers went down.

Their previous work had been largely exploratory and with the purpose of clearing away some of the obstructions from the Squalus' deck.

After hours of activity in which a third down-haul line was attached for divers to descend to the Squalus, the undersea workers came up for the night but surface phases of the salvage work continued.

Be Raised In Stages

Under the plan drafted here and approved in Washington, the Squalus will be raised in stages, first one end and then the other, through a delicate balance between the lifting power of air pumped i to the sunken craft and the buoyance of huge pontoons which first would be sunk 130 feet below the surface.

While the divers worked at the

Attention To Toy Lending

A display of reconditioned used toys for the Girl Scout toy lending library, in the window of the building at 308 South Ohio avenue, has attracted much attention from downtown shoppers.

The Girl Scout toy lending library, which is a new project in Sedalia, will be open next Saturday morning at the Sedalia public library, between the hours of 10 and 12.

The names of children in two hundred families have been obtained from Miss Roseanne Dugan, secretary of the Pettis County Social Security Commission and Mrs. Robert Spencer, executive secretary of the Pettis county chapter, American Red Cross. The children in these families, twelve and under, will be eligible to obtain cards and toys. Other names may be obtained from school teachers or other authoritative persons who deal with children.

In the north window of the building are toys which will be given as rewards to children who carefully handle toys for a certain length of time. Under the arrangement a child may borrow a toy for a week. At the end of the week they may again have that one or obtain another. Those children who do not break, or who have obeyed the rules for a certain length of time, will be given one of the award toys to keep.

The following committee is in charge of the library: Mrs. Harold Dean, Mrs. John McLaughlin, Mrs. C. A. Wright, Miss Marian Phipps, Mrs. Lawrence Barnett, and they will be assisted each week by one of the senior girl scout troops.

The committee solicits any used toys which residents of the city may have and are willing to donate to this cause.

Dynamite Stolen From Automobile

The theft of ten dynamite caps from a car owned by Henry Heitman Saturday night, is causing Mr. Heitman and police officers considerable anxiety, not because of the value of the dynamite, but because of the harm that might result.

Mr. Heitman planned to go to his cabin on the lake today, and had purchased the dynamite to dig out some post holes. He parked his car at Fourth street and Carr avenue, and on learning it had been robbed, an investigation was made.

Neighbors reported seeing four boys, three rather small, in the car, and that amount of dynamite in their hands, if they are the offenders, might prove very dangerous.

Library Be Closed On Memorial Day

The Sedalia Public Library will be closed all day, Memorial Day, Tuesday, May 30, in observance of that holiday.

Condolences On Dr. Mayo

Body Lies In State In The Lobby Of The Mayo Clinic

ROCHESTER, Minn., May 27—(AP)—Messages of condolence from many sections of the world and every state in the Union poured into Rochester today as this city mourned the loss of Dr. Charles Horace Mayo, its world famed surgeon and co-founder of the Mayo Clinic, who died in Chicago Friday.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose son James successfully underwent a major abdominal operation by Mayo clinic physicians last summer, was one of the first to send a message of sympathy.

President Roosevelt's message to Mrs. Mayo said: "I have learned with deep regret of the loss which has come to you with such crushing force in the passing of your devoted husband.

"Great surgeon and great humanitarian, Dr. Mayo administered his matchless gifts as a sacred trust for the benefit of all mankind. To you and to all who mourn with you, I offer an assurance of sincere sympathy.—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Besides messages from state and national officials in all states of the Union, condolences came from clergymen and members of religious orders. Messages came from Scotland, Ireland, England and India.

Thousands of Rochester and Minnesota residents were expected to pay homage to Dr. Charles, as the body lay in state Sunday in the lobby of the Mayo clinic.

Final details of funeral services Monday were being prepared by members of the clinic board of governors.

Private services will be held at the home preceding public rites in Cavalry Episcopal church. Dr. Guy C. Menefee, pastor of the church will officiate at the public

Broad Outline Presented On Tax Revision

Program Of Five Points Suggested From Treasury

WASHINGTON, May 27—(AP)—A broad outline for tax revision legislation to remove "business irritants" and promote a "lasting recovery" was laid before Congress today by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Without specific recommendations for new tax schedules, the treasury chief suggested to the House Ways and Means committee that it consider a five-point program and indicated the administration was willing to:

1. Reduce some of the higher individual income surtax rates if pending legislation is passed to prohibit future issuance of tax-exempt securities.

2. Repeal the remaining 2½ per cent undistributed profits tax.

3. Liberalize the present capital stock tax and the related excess profits levy.

4. Provide for the carry-over of net annual business losses to be deducted from business profits of future years.

5. Continue cooperative studies with a view to legislation at the next session, to change the present law limiting to $2,000 the excess of corporate capital losses over capital gains that may be deducted from ordinary income.

Statement Approved

Republicans on the committee promptly asserted that Morgenthau had "admitted" the Republican position on the tax question was correct. In a statement which he said spoke for the 10 minority members of the committee, Rep. Treadway (R. Mass.) said, "by continually pointing out to the country the dangers of the administration's tax policies we have finally forced this admission and an agreement to remedy the situation partially x x x."

Morgenthau told the committee that President Roosevelt approved

Snite Bathes At Lourdes Grotto

LOURDES, France, May 27—(AP)—Fred B. Snite, Jr., bathed today at the Grotto of Lourdes, which he made a 5,000-mile pilgrimage in his "iron lung" to visit.

Behind curtains of the three-gabled bathhouse to which the waters of the Grotto are piped, the 29-year-old Chicago infantile paralysis victim was lifted from the respiratory cylinder and placed in a seven-by-three-foot basin.

He remained in the cold water almost half an hour, less than half the time he can breathe without artificial aid.

Snite decided suddenly just after noon to bathe in the waters from the Grotto, where the Roman Catholic world believes the Virgin Mary revealed herself in 1858 to Bernadette Soubirous, a peasant girl.

Dried from his dip in the icy waters, Snite was placed back in his trailer with the "iron lung" and, after a few moments of prayer, before the Grotto, was returned to his room.

Edward I. Love Dies In Train Wreck On Friday Night

Fireman Loses Life As Engine Overturns

Killed In Wreck

E. I. Love, of Jefferson City, former Sedalian, who was scalded to death in a freight train wreck near Jefferson City Friday night.

Edward Irvin Love, 52, Missouri Pacific engineer and Paul Lackey, 42, fireman, were killed about 11 o'clock Friday night when the frieght train they were taking from Kansas City to Jefferson City, left a track loosened by water, and was wrecked. The accident occurred near Scott's Station, about eight miles from Jefferson City, their destination. The train, of forty-three cars, some of them heavily loaded, weaved from side to side on the loosened track. The engine left the track and plowed into the ground ahead, forced by the heavy cars in the rear and turned over. Both men were probably killed instantly, Love scalded to death.

G. A. Webb, head brakeman, who was riding in the brakeman's cab behind the engine tender was not injured. Twenty-three of the forty-three cars left the track, many of them piling up in a heap.

Bodies Found by Brother

The bodies were found by Engineer Love's brother, T. W. Love, of Jefferson City, Missouri Pacific road foreman of engines, who had been called to the scene. The wreck was reported to the agent at Cole Junction by a transiefit. Mr. Love was notified that there was a wreck and he drove to within a mile of the place. Leaving his car he started to walk down the track and was picked up by a signal man on a motor car. Mr. Love knew his brother had been engineer on the train and arriving at the scene hoped that he and the fireman had jumped. He started to walk away from the engine, but turned back and decided to look in the cab first. There he saw the body of his brother, but he was unable to move him until assistance arrived.

Engineer Love had pulled the emergency brake, and had his hand on the throttle.

T. W. Love, riding a passenger train out of Kansas City early Friday morning, had seen his brother on the freight train on a siding, waiting for the passenger train to pull out. The freight followed.

Others Uninjured

Other members of the train crew were Conductor Al Lane of Lexington, Brakeman W. D. Crump and E. A. Blockberger, all of Jefferson City. None of these men received any injuries, as they were riding in the caboose.

Submits Plan To Revise Act On Neutrality

Secretary Hull Asks Repeal Of The Present Law

WASHINGTON, May 27—(AP)—Secretary Hull, asking first of all for repeal of the present law's provision for an embargo on shipment of arms to belligerents, submitted to Congress tonight an administration program for revision of the Neutrality Act.

In letters to chairmen of the Senate and House Foreign Relations committees, Mr. Hull outlined a six-point proposal for legislation he said would "help to keep this country out of war."

He suggested enactment or re-enactment of these provisions:

1. "To prohibit American ships irrespective of what they may be carrying from entering combat areas.

2. "To restrict travel by American citizens in combat areas.

3. "To provide that the export of goods destined for belligerents shall be preceded by transfer to title to the foreign purchaser."

4. "To continue the existing legislation respecting loans and credits to nations at war.

5. "To regulate the solicitation and collection in this country of funds for belligerents.

6. "To continue the National Munitions Control Board and the system of arms export and import licenses."

Provisions along these lines,

There were no Missouri Pacific trains through Sedalia Saturday until late at night, because all were detoured while the wreck near Jefferson City was being cleared away and the track repaired.

The first train was No. 19, passenger, due at 9:25 o'clock, which was about fifteen minutes late. Other trains began arriving on schedule.

The mail, that usually comes in on the fast mail, was brought to Sedalia Saturday morning by truck from Jefferson City. No other Missouri Pacific routed mail was received at the postoffice until after the arrival of No. 19 Saturday night.

Post Office Be Closed On Memorial Day

The post office will remain closed on Tuesday, May 30, which is Memorial day, a national holiday.

Rebuilding Our Roads

If there is one thing on which the United States likes to pride itself, it is our magnificent system of hard roads.

It is perfectly proper that we should do so. There is no question that the United States has more and better roads than any other country in the world.

But it is one thing to congratulate oneself on past achievements, and another to turn smug, relax, and fall behind. And that is what we are in danger of doing in the matter of our roads.

It has been estimated, for instance, that 97 per cent of the surfaced highway now laid down is of the two-lane, 20-foot variety which is after all nothing but a horse-and-buggy road surfaced. It is not a motor road at all.

The American Association of State Highway Officials studied the matter in 1937 and concluded that there were then about 4,704 miles of three-lane, 3,082 miles of four-lane, and 221 miles of six-lane pavement. In other words, in 1937 there were only about 8,000 miles of multiple-lane highways in the country.

Only such highways can really be considered motor roads in the modern sense. And of the 3,303 miles of four and six-lane width highways, only 604 miles were divided so that traffic passing in opposite directions was divided by a raised parkway or center strip.

How much we have progressed beyond that since 1937 is not definitely known, but not much. And yet no one can consider a surfaced road really a motor road or modern highway unless it is at least four lanes, and divided in the center by such a parkway as to make interference almost impossible between traffic passing in opposite directions.

Germany has made progress in this field which might well be studied. Everyone who has driven its new motor roads, with two-level crossings, banked grades, divided lanes, lack of intersections, and general design for a motor age rather than a mere surfaced horse-and-buggy road, comments enthusiastically on the progress that has been made.

Germany, coming into the motor age 20 years after the United States, knows better than we did what needs must be met in modern highways. Starting now, practically from scratch, and with military needs constantly in mind, she has gone ahead with a road system which, as far as it goes, is perhaps the most modern in the world.

Our job is there. It is one more answer to those who say, "America is all built — there is nothing left to do."

Call For Genghis

The Japanese, it is reported, are hatching a plan to seize the remains of Genghis Khan, which have lain for seven centuries in a silver casket at Etsinhoro, Suiyuan, and place them within their own conquered territory in China. The idea would be to win the allegiance of Mongol descendants of followers of the Great Khan who carried his conquests across Asia and half way across Europe in the thirtenth century.

Well, it's not a bad idea. But it could be carried still farther. Why not seize the bones of the most ruthless and unscrupulous of all conquerors and carry them instead to Europe. Then the peaceful country of Switzerland could be overrun, the inhabitants bombed and butchered, and the bones of Genghis Khan enshrined atop the tallest Alp, in the midst of a desert.

That would be setting up an appropriate idol in the very midst of Europe which should inspire the armament race in all countries during the next twenty years until Genghis Khan's ideals are finally completely trumphant and civilization returns to the point where he dominated so much of it, back in the thirteenth century.

Arkansas, Realtor

The state of Arkansas, which owns one of every sixteen acres of land within the state, is considered by the American Society of Planning Officials to have adopted land policies which place it in the front rank among the half dozen states which have this problem in aggravated form.

The state has named a land commissioner who will classify the 2,000,000 acres of land, mostly tax-reverted, which belongs to the state. Land suitable for such purposes may be put back into private hands in "family-sized" tracts by sale or outright grant. But some effort will be made not to sell indiscriminately land for this purpose at $1 an acre only to see it inevitably bounce back on the state for taxes in a year or so. Proceeds from land sales will be used to pay administration expenses and protect and maintain the remaining lands.

Only one thing is certain about situations like this: Any plan is better than simply allowing such land to remain uselessly fallow, producing no taxes for the state, no benefits for individuals.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — A White House caller who must be nameless recently summoned his nerve sufficinetly to put point-blank to Roosevelt the biggest political question asked by the country—the third term. The way he phrased it was that, according to the way events were shaping up, Roosevelt would have no alternative but to run again.

But the President demurred. "After eight years of carrying this load," he said, "I'm entitled to a rest. I don't think I should be asked to do more."

This Roosevelt's friends believe, was a sincere answer. Left to himself, the President will not run again.

Yet the visitor who queried him departed from the White House with the feeling that the door was not quite shut. As he pointed out to associates later, Roosevelt said that he "should not be asked to do more." Which is a lot different from saying "I will not do more."

It is this leaving of the door slightly ajar that has helped to renew both the speculation that he would run, and the drive among his friends to jockey him into running.

Today third term speculation, both pro and con, has hit the high peak of the last six years. Behind most of this is the determination of the inner circle that Roosevelt must run; and behind this, in turn, are two deep-rooted beliefs:

1. That Roosevelt is the only Democrat who can win.

2. That unless he does win, the New Deal is finished.

On the second point, it is significant that all Democratic candidates are in agreement with the inner circle, even Jim Farley. Although campaigning on a staunch Roosevelt platform, Farley does not deny that much of what Roosevelt stood for will crumble when he retires.

Teddy's Mistake

More than three years ago, the President told close friends that he had no intention of settling the third term question until the eve of the nominating convention. He explained that he had always remembered what happened to his cousin, Teddy Roosevelt, after he renounced a third term.

Republican Party leaders, F. D. Roosevelt recalled, ceased to consider Teddy a factor to be reckoned with, and he lost control of his party. FDR said that he intended to keep Congress guessing, that he would not make the same mistake.

As part of the same strategy of silence, Roosevelt also knows that the more uncertainty there is about his future, the more difficult it is for Garner, Farley and Hull. They are left dangling on a limb. Though still busy scrambling for convention delegates, these gentlemen are up against the big question mark of whether their chief in Washington might decide at the last moment to throw his hat in the ring.

To all of them, this would be highly embarrassing.

If Roosevelt should make this decision, he could get the nomination. Whether or not he could overcome the anti-third-term tradition and get re-elected remains to be seen; but as to the nomination there can be no doubt.

Jim Farley

Some Old Guard Democrats will walk out, possibly even Jack Garner—but there is one thing to put your money on: Jim Farley will not be among the bolters.

Privately, Jim is opposed to a third term, but if Roosevelt is in the picture, Jim will step out and give him the same loyal support as in the past. There is no question about that, for two reasons.

First, Jim is that kind of guy. Second, because he believes that regardless of whether the President runs, the 1940 campaign will be waged on only one issue—Roosevelt. That is why Jim believes he, himself, would have a chance to win if nominated, notwithstanding the fact that he is Tammany and Catholic.

Jim believes that the Democratic nominee, no matter who he is, will have to stand by the New Deal and that he will win or lose on that stand. In other words, Roosevelt will be the issue whether he runs himself or not. Furthermore, Jim is firmly convinced that the Democratic nomination won't be worth the paper i's written on unless the President takes off his coat and gives his all for the candidate.

Garner Out?

In this reasoning, Jim not only sees eye to eye with the inner circle, but with most of the hard-boiled party leaders out in the country. This explains why privately so few of the latter think Garner has any chance to be nominated.

Real fact is that Roosevelt would not stand for Garner. He doesn't consider him a New Dealer, and would not campaign for him. Without Roosevelt's speeches the Democratic Party would have utterly no hope. So they are counting Garner out—despite all the hullabaloo and polls for the Vice President.

Inside fact is that the New Dealers may not be able to win without Roosevelt, but the party is certain to lose without him.

That is Roosevelt's trump card. It is the cudgel he is holding over the heads of his foes within the party. They may hate him, but they may have to draft him if they want to stay in office.

It Happened In America

A letter mailed to Brattleboro, a town in Vermont, from almost any place in the world, should eventually get there, for it is the only place in existence bearing that name. In 1762 the settlement was started on the site of Fort Dummer, which was built in 1724. It was here the first white child in Vermont was born, who later became the father of a President of Yale University. Rudyard Kipling lived here for several years and married a Miss Balestier, a local girl. It was here two of their children were born and where he wrote "Captains Courageous."

It seemed to be a favorite trick of Indian tribes to point out to Spanish explorers, first in one direction, then another, lands of fabulous riches, said to have a king whose body was covered every morning with gold dust, whence the phrase "El Dorado" came to be applied to regions where the precious metal was plentiful. De Soto searched for his "El Dorado," where streets were supposed to be paved with gold. When Coronado started out to win the Spanish Princess, he, too, sought "El Dorado," or more specifically in his case, the "Seven Cities of Cibola," and these men were lead in all directions for their "El Dorado." Many places in America bear this name, including a county in California, the first in which gold was actually discovered, and cities in Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois and many other places. The word means "the gilded."

Near Cash, South Dakota, there has been partially uncovered what is claimed to be the largest unbroken petrified tree in the world, far surpassing any specimen in the famed petrified forest of Arizona. A trench has been dug alongside the tree a distance of 75 feet, and testings indicate it remains intact at least 100 feet. The butt is 8 feet, 5 inches in diameter, and 75 feet up it is three feet. Botanical experts think this tree is closely related to the California redwoods.

CHAPTER VII

DAWN was breaking when the last couple left the Dove. The storm, after sweeping the city, had vanished in a level line of black clouds. The wet streets, as pale as death, were smooth and slick, like polished steel. Bright lights blazed from every window of the Dove.

"Bosses not gone home yet?" inquired an officer of the doorman.

"Nope. It's against de rules of the house to close so long as anybody's dumb enough to stay. Dis weather sure gives me the creeps. Somethin' spooky about it." He jumped as the door of the Dove opened suddenly. Nick poked his head out.

"What's eatin' you, Tony? You're nervous as a cat. How'd you like to treat your friend to a drink?"

Tony smiled sheepishly. "Old age's got me, I guess, boss. How about it, Mike?"

"Don't mind if I do have a drink. I've checked in for the stretch. I need it after a night like this.

The Duke was leaning against the bar in the rear room, drinking a whisky and soda. The air was stale and dead; heavy with old cigar and cigaret smoke. Though brightly lit, the room exuded the vague, mysterious air that goes with a shady past. Its long bar, its poster-plastered walls and its liquor-stained tables suggested more lurid hours.

Nick spoke to Martin. "Tony's bringing Mike in for a drink. Old friend of ours, eh Duke?"

Martin smiled. "As long as we keep on the right side of the fence. That's okay, Mike. Come draw up your chair. What do you know?" He poured the policeman a Scotch and soda. "Tony, fix your own poison."

MIKE pushed back his cap. "I had my troubles last night."

"Drink your drink first," interrupted Nick hospitably, "mebbe your troubles won't seem like troubles after a swig. I've discovered that meself, say what I went through wid last night—" Martin trod heavily on Nick's patent leather evening shoes.

"You must think you're back on Tenth avenue again," Nick growled. "Where's de manners Tuckie's learnin' yuh?"

"You're jest a sap-head," commented the Duke evenly. "Now that we've shut up this foodling partner of mine, Mike, tell us what happened last night."

The policeman drained his glass. "I fished a girl out of the River.

The men showed casual interest. "Some dame's always flying off the handle," Nick remarked indifferently. "Dey can't take it."

He reached for the whisky bottle.

The policeman paid no attention. "I might of saved her if I'd got there a couple of minutes earlier, but it was rainin' and blowin'. I didn't see her until she was jumpin' off the dock."

"Go in after her?" inquired the Duke.

"Yes. That's why I have on these duds. I had to leave me own at the station house to dry out."

"Tough night to be in any river," said Tony. Did she fight?"

"Yes. She called me a devil, hit me in de face and hollered to let her go."

"Did you?" asked the Duke.

"Fer a minute. Till I could get hold o' meself. When I caught up wid her, she was floatin' out from shore and I struck her across the mouth. She screamed." Mike waited till Nick poured him another glass. "After that she passed out."

"Was the girl good looking?" inquired the Duke.

"Dat's what kept me workin' to save her," said Mike. "She sure was beautiful. Red hair. There was class written all over her." He sighed. "When we was almost to de dock, she came to and begun whimpering, 'Don't make me live, officer,' she gasps, 'de've got me. I can't go on. Let me die.'"

"She musta had some hangover on," said Tony. "Dey all get weepy when dey's drunk."

"No. She wasn't drunk," said Mike. "I've handled plenty of dem. I know dat kind. Dis one was desperate."

"And so what?" The Duke was plainly bored.

THE policeman's voice dropped. "When I finally picked her up again, she was dead."

"Has de morgue got her now?" inquired Nick.

"Yes." The policeman's hand shook as he filled his glass for the third time.

The Duke yawned. "Find out who she was?"

"No." Mike smiled. "I thought mebbe she might be one of your customers. She was classy enough to be."

The Duke frowned. "Cut the kiddin'! We don't go in for suicides."

"What did she have on?" inquired Nick.

"Some sorta pink dress, very flimsy." Mike reached in his pocket. "Here is a copy of me report." He began reading, "Dragged out of the East River at 2:30 a. m., November 24, a girl. Height five foot two, weight 115 pounds. Red hair. Brown eyes. Pink evening dress, silver slippers. Platinum ring set with sapphires on little finger of right hand. 'From Daddy to Babe, March 23, 1936' inscribed inside."

The Duke put his glass down. His face had paled. "Sounds like sob stuff to me," he said abruptly. "It's time to be closing." He walked toward the door.

Nick glanced at him nervously. "Drop in again, Mike," he said flatly to the policeman.

"I will sometime," the officer buttoned his coat. "Thanks for de drink."

"You run along, too, Tony," ordered the Duke. "Nick an me'll shut up."

Eagerly the doorman put on his hat and coat. "I don't mind if I do turn in." Whistling Loch Lomond off key, he left.

The Duke listened for Tony to shut the front door. "We've got to work quick, Nick," he spoke with machine gun precision. That's Janice French Mike hauled out of the river. I know the ring he described. Where are those pictures you pinched from Mary Franklin?"

Nick took a long white envelope from his pocket. "What are you goin' to do wid 'em?"

The Duke walked through the pantry to the kitchen. Nick followed. He stepped over to the range, picked up an iron lifter, raised a stove lid, took the photographs out of the envelope and slowly dropped them in the fire, then watched the snapshots burn, a sardonic expression on his ugly face. He suggested one of those primitive stone carvings in which there is barbarism and strength, but also something terrifying and relentlessly cruel.

Nick's lips moved. "It isn't going to be easy to make the Gazette forget last night after I bulldozed their favorite reporter."

"Aw, forget it," said the Duke. "They have to prove the case before they can print anything."

"Just because the little bum had to kill herself," mourned Nick, "we've been done out of a cool thousand a week. Where are we going to get another customer like that?"

"Janice French isn't the only rich kid in New York," said the Duke.

Rose Talk No. 11

What is the difference between hybrid perpetual and hybrid tea Roses?

Hybrid perpetual does not mean perpetual blooming. They will usually stand much cold, have flowers that are more double, and the buds are flatter than the hybrid teas. They are not tea scented, and bloom in June. Hybrid teas are rather perpetual blooming. They usually need some protection in winter, are less double, and have more pointed buds. They are strongly tea scented, and have more of a bronze color in the stems and foliage.

We have a complete line of plants and cut flowers for Memorial Day. Visit our greenhouses, and make your selection.

Blame Worry For Suicide

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 27.—(AP)—Worry over his health was blamed Friday for the death of William A. Devereaux, 21, University of Michigan junior who eloped three months ago with the 19-year-old granddaughter of C. W. Nash, motor car manufacturer.

Devereaux's young wife, formerly Marjorie Ruth Wilson of Kenosha, Wis., found his body hanging by an electric cord from a rafter in the garage behind their apartment this afternoon and was quoted by Edwin C. Ganzhorn, coroner, as saying her husband had been concerned over his health.

Ganzhorn recorded the death as suicide.

Edwin Spotts Is Saved From Chair

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 27—(AP)—Gov. Culbert L. Olson acted Friday on the advice of the Pardon Advisory Board and commuted the death sentence of Edwin Spotts to life imprisonment.

Martin told the Pardon Board he accidentally pulled the trigger and shot Tanner, in a holdup which he had decided upon on a momentary impulse, while Spotts waited for him in a car.

The governor received scores of letters from Los Angeles residents expressing doubt Spotts was guilty of first degree murder, although he had admitted participating in other holdups with Martin.

Paul Thinks In World Terms
Text: Romans 1:1-17

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Editor Of Advance

The title of this lesson is in itself both suggestive and challenging—"Paul Thinks in World Terms." It ought to be easy to think in world terms in our day, when the world has become a world of closely related countries and communities, so brought together by transportation that around-the-world tours of fantastic imagination have long become a reality and is bound still so much closer by intercommunication that the whole world can be girdled with a message in a few moments.

Yet, despite this bringing of the world into one community, how few of us think in world terms! "Isolationism" is a term in very common use, and it suggests an attitude that deliberately refuses to think in world terms.

One should add, of course, that this is occasioned by the war-madness of the world and the sincere questioning of many in this country whether we can help by becoming embroiled in the rivalries and conflicts of other nations.

But was Paul right in thinking in world terms? And if Paul was right, can the Christian ever be right unless he does think in world terms? Obviously, that Paul should have thought in world terms was much more wonderful than that anyone should think in world terms today.

It was true that the whole world was unified under the Roman Empire, but travel and means of communication were slow and difficult. There was everything to make one, born in a particular community, have his interests and his vision limited by that community. Paul's world view was essentially associated with his religious experience and with a vision that came to him through Jesus Christ. When a man has come to the clear and strong conviction that God is the God of the whole world, that He is a God and father of men who loves them without distinction of race or class or color, and when he conceives of God's great purpose as the redemption of men, inevitably his thoughts and his interests become large and unlimited.

He cannot set any bounds to the outreach of God's grace or to the Gospel of good news concerning God that he has to proclaim. Inevitably he thinks of it as reaching to the utmost parts of the earth, and to limit it in any way would be to destroy the sense of its fullness and its meaning.

Thus it was that Paul became the great missionary world traveler. This Epistle to the Romans was one of the earliest of his writings. It was not until many years after that he would go to Rome, and then as a prisoner.

But he longed to go to the Imperial City, the very center of power and influence in the ancient world, and there proclaim the Gospel of which he was not ashamed.

He thought of the power of Rome, but he, also, was the minister of a force that was the power of God under salvation. It seemed a proud boast, but Rome has long since gone the way of earthly empires while the power of the Gospel still grows in depth and outreach.

CANCER QUESTION

Much publicity is being given to the idea that all suspicious lumps should be removed to prevent cancer. This will, no doubt, result in many useless operations leaving one in fear of recurrence.

A doctor had diagnosed a certain condition as cancer and advised operation. The patient asked my opinion and I said that it was not cancer. Who was right? My method of diagnosis was different from the other doctor's, though it is not infallible. The operation was not a dangerous one so I made no objection but advised tissues be sent away for analysis. The examination showed, "not cancer." Had this test not been made the patient would always have thought that it was concer, the doctor would have claimed that it was cancer, as he had diagnosed it, and would therefore be given credit for a cure that was not justified.

Dr. Roy M. Keller

I have had cases diagnosed cancer by others that I have gotten well chiropractically. My opinion is that effort should be made to correct these doubtful cases through drugless methods before surgery is restored to.

Perjury Charge Against Oliver

KANSAS CITY, May 27—(AP)—A federal grand jury investigating crime conditions in Kansas City indicated today it will take stern measures with witnesses when it indicted Stephen Oliver, 37, on a perjury charge.

The indictment was based on testimony Oliver gave the grand jury in connection with its inquiry into the income for tax purposes of Charles V. Corollo, reputed head of Kansas City's gambling syndicate.

The indictment charged that Oliver told the jurors he had not collected any "protection" money from gamblers.

"In truth and in fact," the indictment stated, "the aforesaid Stephen Oliver did collect money from persons in Kansas City, for the purpose and under the pretense of enabling them to continue in the operation of dice and gambling games and for the purpose and under the pretense of securing for them protection in the operation of gambling games and to prevent them from being molested in the operation of the same."

The indictment then named four persons here and charged Oliver collected $200 a month from each of them during the period from February 1, 1938 to January 1, 1939.

A forthwith subpoena ordering his immediate arrest was issued for Oliver.

Meanwhile, Carrollo, indicted by the grand jury yesterday for alleged perjury in connection with testimony he gave at a federal hearing on his application for American citizenship, appeared before United States Commissioner Charles H. Thompson. He gave $10,000 bond and Commissioner Thompson set June 5 as the date for Carrollo to answer the indictment in court. He previously was indicted for alleged use of the mails to defraud in connection with the fortune skillball game.

After making its report to Judge Albert L. Reeves, returning the Oliver indictment, the grand jury recessed until Tuesday June 6.

The Samuel Goldwyn production of "Stella Dallas," with Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles, comes to the Uptown Theatre today, Monday and Tuesday. It gives Barbara Stanwyck the strongest role in her entire career, and one which was coveted by every leading actress in Hollywood. Co-starred with Miss Stanwyck is John Boles, with a distinguished supporting cast, including Anne Shirley, Alan Hale, Barbara O'Neil, Al Shean of the famous team of Gallagher and Shean, and Tim Holt, son of Jack Holt. "Stella Dallas" is without doubt one of the most poignant and gripping stories ever to be filmed. It was originally a best-selling novel, later a success on the stage. Second feature on the program is "Arrest Bulldog Drummond," another thrilling picture in the Bulldog Drummond" series, with John Howard in the title role, supported by Heather Angel, H. B. Warner, Reginald Denny and E. E. Clive.

Plans Airline Into The South

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 27—(AP)—Harvey C. Couch, president and chairman of the board of the Kansas City Southern railroad, said today he was "pushing vigorously" plans to establish an airline service between Kansas City and New Orleans.

He disclosed that a formal application for a license would be on file with the bureau of air commerce at Washington by July 1.

"I'm sold on the idea," Couch said. "Kansas City is the natural gateway for traffic both north and south, and east and west."

Asserting he was unable to estimate when service would start, Couch said the obtaining of mail contracts, purchase of equipment and fixing of schedules would take some time.

The proposed plane route would serve Fort Smith, Ark., Texarkana, Ark., Shreveport, La., Baton Rouge, La., and possibly Alexandria, La.

The railway board discussed the proposal at Kansas City two weeks ago, authorizing W. N. Deramus, executive vice-president, to make application for the proper authority for a passenger, mail and express air service.

Unspoiled Martha

The house was not the only thing that got warmed when Martha Raye celebrated the opening of her new home with a housewarming. As part of the festivities, just for luck, and also to celebrate completion of Martha's newest picture, "Never Say Die," Martha's mother, Mrs. Mable Read, took her daughter over her knee in the old-fashioned manner.

Tom Rucker In the Movies

Through a chance meeting with Robert Frayne Chapin, stage and screen playwright, twelve year old Tom Rucker, son of Prof. E. H. Rucker and Mrs. Rucker, of Pasadena, Calif., formerly of Tipton, is a member of the cast "The Great American Family," which recently had its premiere at Pasadena playhouse.

In his searching for talent for the show Chapin stopped in a drug store where he saw young Tom at a soda fountain. The playwright "sized up" the boy, liked his looks and asked him to come and read the play. The casting director liked the boy's work and immediately assigned him to the role of Frank in the play. It had its premiere May 2. Critics were generally favorable in their press comments of the boy's acting.

The play was written by Lee Shippey, of Los Angeles, also a former Missourian whose home was in Higginsville.

Thomas isn't the only member of the family who is doing things. His older brother, Neville Rucker, has recently played with the Pasadena symphony orchestra at the San Francisco fair during a week's engagement, and the boy's mother, the former Harriet Evans is a member of the ninety piece Pasadena symphony which will play Monday, May 29, for the world premier of "Jeptha" with four Metropolitan opera stars as heads in the cast.

The Ruckers are cousins of Mrs. Arthur Burton, 1208 East Ninth street.

Adjournment Legislature Is Not In Sight

Sessions May Run As Far Into June As The Twelfth

JEFFERSON CITY, May 27—(AP)—Final adjournment of the legislature—once a goal for today—faded into the future tonight with predictions the 60th general assembly would set an all-time high for longevity.

Complicating developments piled in this week which originally had been marked for "getaway week." Instead of sine die adjournment today, the veteran John D. Taylor (D) Keytesville, stood on the floor of the house and remarked:

"I don't see how we can get away before the 12th of June."

That would make this assembly the longest in state history by four days. The 59th legislature stayed in session until June 8, 1937.

The story of the final gavel lies almost entirely in the senate, but there will be plenty for the house to do when the upper branch gets into its final days. Meanwhile representatives remained at home awaiting a work order from its presiding officers who are marking time for the senate.

Barrier in Path

Latest development to snarl the path to adjournment was Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's warning of a relief crisis, coupled wit ha recommendation the $4,000,000 University of Missouri appropriation be transferred from general revenue to the state school fund. The university bill already has been approved by a conference committee and changes would force it back to the floor of both chambers for further consideration.

Many outspoken house members looked with disfavor on the governor's plan—one termed it a "raid on the school funds"—and the proposal is certain to meet long and heated debate if it ever reaches that stage.

Influential senators, once determined to get the session out of the way by today, watched through methodical meetings this week that gave no indication anybody was even thinking of going home. Bulk of the unfinished business is in that chamber.

Most members expect the controversial Kansas City police bill to be gotten out the way this week, thus clearing one more urgency from the path to adjournment.

The bill, due on the calendar Monday, probably will be ready for final consideration by Wednesday and, unless it runs athwart a filibuster, should be through the legislation before the week-end recess.

Still pending, however, are several appropriation bills which both chambers usually go over piece by piece. Nearly everybody agrees something will have to be done to meet the financial crisis confronting the social security program and days may be consumed in trying to work out that problem.

In addition, the senate still is waiting for Governor Stark to submit a score or more recess appointments ,including the important post of penal director. All these appointments—a total of about 140—must either be confirmed or rejected by the senate before it can call it a session and go home.

Sent 688 To Firing Squads

MADRID, May 27—(AP)—It was officially announced last night that the Nationalists' specially constituted councils of war and permanent military tribunals had sent 688 persons before firing squads since the fall of Madrid March 28.

The councils, formed by officers of the Madrid army of occupation, condemned 1,000 persons to death, but the sentences of 312 of them were commuted to prison terms by Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Officials of the military tribunals said in disclosing the figures that daily trials contributing to "the total normalization of the life of the nation," were "indispensible for initiation of the second era of empire."

Tribunals in Madrid have been trying 380 persons daily accused of assassinations, robberies, burning and cacking of churches, treason, imprisonment of Nationalist sympathizers and other activities during the time when the republicans dominated the city.

The number condemned includes those sentenced by councils of war operating in Toledo, Ciudad Real and Albacete in addition to Madrid. A roundup of alleged criminals in all newly-incorporated zones is continuing under direction of military authorities.

The latest number awaiting trial in Madrid was not announced, but it was officially disclosed less than a month ago that there were 46,000 scheduled to face the tribunals and 1,200,000 informatins filed in all Spain.

Champs in "Courage Handicap" Meet

Three years ago beauteous Jessie Simpson, of Hackensack, N. J., was "Miss New Jersey" and the envy of all her friends. A railroad accident took both her legs, and since then, she has won fame for her courageous fight against the handicap. Fate dealt a similar hand to handsome six-foot-six Monte Stratton, promising White Sox pitcher. He lost a leg in a hunting accident, but is carrying on as coach of the team. They are pictured at the New Yorker Hotel in New York, where, meeting for the first time recently, they found each one's courage had inspired the other.

Why An Electric Franchise Election?

The Authority, commonly known as a Franchise, under which the City Light & Traction Company has been permitted to use the streets of Sedalia for the laying of street car tracks, operating electric street cars, erection of poles and stringing of wires for electric light and power distribution and other purposes, was granted to the Electric Railway, Light and Power Company, of Sedalia, Missouri, its successors or assigns, by the Mayor and City Council of Sedalia, on March 17, 1890, for a term of fifty years. That Franchise, therefore, expires on March 17, next year, 1940.

The granting of a Franchise by Mayor and City Council at that time was a correct procedure under the then existing Missouri statutes. Since that time, however, many changes have been made, not only in the Missouri laws governing the granting of Franchises, but also with respect to matters which Franchise permits may provide. The outstanding changes are as follows:

1. A Franchise cannot now be granted for more than twenty years.
2. In addition to approval by Mayor and majority of the City Council, the Franchise must be ratified by a majority of the people of the Franchise area, voting at a special election held for the purpose. Such election to be advertised and held in accordance with a detailed procedure provided by the Missouri statutes.
3. Franchise grants cannot be exclusive; that is, the granting of a Franchise by the Mayor and City Council and ratification by a majority of the voters does not preclude the granting of a Franchise for the same purpose to a number of other Companies, nor does it prevent the City from going into a similar business on its own account.
4. Under the Missouri Public Service Commission Law, nothing can be written into a Franchise fixing rates for service for the duration of the Grant. The matter of rates is left open for negotiation or for determination before the Commission and the Courts by either party, at any time, on proper showing of justification for rate revisions.
5. A Franchise is important to the Company receiving it in that it serves as a permit to use the streets of the City under prescribed conditions, for a given period, for the purpose of erecting poles and stringing wires for distributing electricity. It is something in the nature of an endorsement from the public which the Company serves. Such endorsement is essential to enable the Company to do financing in connection with carrying on and extending its operations. It is particularly important to this company at this time that the matter of its expiring Franchise be determined in view of the present financial market conditions which would seem to indicate possibility of refunding the Company indebtedness at a lower rate of interest. If this can be accomplished, it would be good business on the part of the Company to do so, and it would be equally good business on the part of the public; for to the extent that the Company can reduce its financing costs, just to that extent can be brought nearer the feasibility of rate reductions, payroll increases or additional expenditures for improvements, any or all of which would be of benefit to the City.
6. A Franchise election is advertised and held at the expense of the Company seeking the Franchise, no portion of such expense being borne by the City by taxation or otherwise; but the Mayor and City Council have full control over naming of judges and clerks of election and other matters of general supervision and conduct of Franchise election procedure.

In line with foregoing statement of facts, the City Light & Traction Company will soon open negotiations with the Mayor and City Council of Sedalia in an effort to reach a satisfactory Franchise agreement, after which the matter will be duly advertised and brought up for determination by a vote of the Sedalia people embraced within the Franchise area.

It is the further intention of this Company to make additional public statements from time to time to the end that the people may be thoroughly informed in this connection and to the end that they may be in position to act on the basis of a full understanding of all the issues and circumstances involved.

Cincinnati Reds Make It Two Over Cardinals

Cloudburst Breaks Up Game In Eighth Inning Score 3 to 2

Double Header Will Be Played Today; Pittsburgh Starts Series Monday

ST. LOUIS, May 27—(AP)—The rampaging Cincinnati Reds showed their heels to the St. Louis Cardinals again today, dusting them off, 3 to 2, before a cloudburst broke up the game after eight innings.

Play could not be resumed after a 30-minute delay and the Redlegs racked up their twelfth successive victory, and increased their grip on first place in the spirited National league race to nearly two full games over the Cardinals.

It was a tense, thrilling struggle and a homer on the pavilion roof by Lonnie Frey in the seventh inning turned out to be the run that brought home the bacon. It was his fourth of the season, and Cincinnati's 33rd in 33 games.

Lee Grissom, Ray Davis and Lloyd Moore held the Cardinals to four hits, two of them doubles by Jimmy Brown and Pepper Martin to account for the Cards' opening score in the first inning.

After tying the score in the fifth on a walk and a pair of singles, Cincinnati moved ahead in the sixth when young Morton Cooper, 1938 strikeout king of the Texas league, uncorked a wild pitch to score Harry Craft from third base.

The second Card score came in the eighth when Jimmy Brown hit the right field foul line pole for a triple to score Lynn King, who had batted for Cooper.

Clyde Shoun hurled the last two innings for the Cards, and although he and Cooper gave up 10 hits, they struck out the same number of batters.

A ladies' day crowd of 15,657, including 6,022 paid customers, saw the contest.

The Cardinals now face the very difficult task of taking both remaining games of the series, a Sunday doubleheader, in order to regain first place.

Tigers Chew On Brownies

Vernon Kennedy, A Former Tiger, Is Knocked From Box

DETROIT, May 27—(AP)—In a slugging mood, led by Charley Gehringer, who hit for the cycle with a single, double, triple and home run in that order, the Detroit Tigers whipped the St. Louis Browns, 12 to 5, in the first game of a scheduled double bill here today and climbed into sixth place in the American league. A severe rainstorm washed out the nightcap in the fourth inning with Detroit leading, 4 to 3.

Vernon Kennedy ,obtained from Detroit in the recent 10-player trade, started for the Browns and was clubbed for eleven hits and eight runs before he was replaced by Bill Trotter in the fifth. Gehringer batted home five of the Detroit runs. The home run was his seventh of the season.

Tommy Bridges, although nicked for home runs by "Tommy" Thompson and Bill Sullivan, scattered eight St. Louis hits in winning his sixth victory of the year.

Yankees Have Winning Streak

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP)—The world champion Yankees ran their newest winning streak to four today with a double victory over the Philadelphia Athletics, 8 to 2 and 11 to 9.

Collapse of the Athletics' pitchers gave New York each game, although for the sixth consecutive contest the opposition made more hits.

The Yankees pushed across six runs in the first inning of the first game on two singles, both by Frank Crosetti, a hit batter and five passes from Leroy Parmelee and Bill Beckman.

The nightcap was a free hitting affair. George Selkirk hit his sixth and seventh homers and Tommy Henrich his fifth, but the brightest of the Yankees' ten hits for followers of the champions was a pinch double by Joe DiMaggio with the basses loaded in the fourth. It was the young slugger's first appearance since injuring a leg April 27.

New York Giants Plaster Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, May 27—(AP)—The New York Giants plastered four Phillie pitchers for 14 hits today to end a three-game losing streak, with a 10 to 1 victory.

Led by Zeke Bonura with four hits, including his third home run of the season, the Giants bunched nine of their runs in the first three frames.

Tony Lazzeri, former Yankee star and later with the Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers, made his debut at third base for the Giants.

Discuss Withdrawl From Big Six

NORMAN, Okla., May 27.—(AP)—University of Oklahoma students, pausing today in the midst of final examinations, discussed the possibility of withdrawing from the Big Six Conference if officials of the organization deny the Sooner football team the right to schedule a tenth game.

Campus gossip was filled with sentiment for switching to the Southwest Conference if admission could be obtained.

ANOTHER Golden Glove champion of the Middlewest has turned professional, at least he has signed to fight his first professional fight on June 6, in Memorial Hall, Kansas City, Kansas. It is none other than Charles Miegel, The K. C. Star's "pride-and-joy" of the Golden Glovers.

Miegel came to Kansas City from Nebraska two years ago; he already had won Golden Glove championships before reaching the Heart-of-America City and advanced to the National finals. Last season he won The Star's championship after a hard fight with one of Sedalia's up-and-coming featherweights, in Henry Harker, Negro boxer. He likewise met another Sedalia champion in Mark Peek of Lexington; both boys have fought losing and winning bouts with each other. Both were favorites in The Star's last Tournament of Champions, but it was Miegel who finally stepped out front.

The "new professional" is signed against Baby Lou Alcanter in the semi-final encounter on the Kansas City, Kansas, card. The announcement of the bout was made by Bus Breese, promoter of the show, who, incidentally, is one of the best in the featherweight class. Breese announced Miegel would fight at 130-pound weight.

Certainly it is an incentive for amateurs to continue with Miegel out of the amateur running forever. When he appeared on the amateur cards, many youngsters began to "fold" up because they feared he was too good to beat. One thing certain, Miegel, after winning what amateur boxing had, steps aside to give the youngsters an opportunity.

If more amateurs, who have won all the laurels there are in that class of boxing, would step aside and give the youngsters a chance, there probably would be more interest displayed throughout the country. Too many times have favorites, such as Miegel, been given the preference over the "babes," therefore causing them to loose interest in boxing.

WONDER how a former "professional" baseball player in Sedalia feels now since the Cardinals have been holding the top position of the National League the past two weeks. As I remember, the said person said the Cards would probably finish up in the second division, and couldn't hold the top honors for long, but indications are at present, and if the steam can be kept up, they will divide some of the first division money this year.

It was called to my attention the past week, this baseball lover hasn't had much room for the Cards, but like another "Grantland Rice" of the Elks, who said Vander Meer was all washed up, can possibly be very badly misinformed as to just what the Cardinals have this year.

Chicago should not be overlooked, as they have been playing with all breaks against them. With warm weather approaching, they, too, are a possible pennant winner this year.

On the other hand it appears as if the Reds might stick a knife deep into the Red Birds on this series now underway. Two straight so far with a double-header coming up today.

Anyhow (Dick) let's keep our eyes on the Cardinals and the Reds and just see how far someone is wrong.

A THREE weeks layoff from playing on the Liberty Park baseball diamond, and having three Sunday games away from home, will probably be the salvation of the Sedalia Merchants. Their last two games have not been what they should have.

Manager Vincent Seigel has been pulling what few hairs he has left on his head, worrying himself sick over the team's playing. However, he feels the boys have their off days and maybe the two will be all for the remainder of the season.

Certainly some consistent practicing will help a great deal.

Collegiate AAAA Is Won By Trojans

Pile Highest Score In History Of Meet, Their Second Win

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—A high-geared piece of track and field machinery swept through the 63rd championships of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A., today and turned in a set of record-shattering performances that should stand for years to come.

Before 7,500 in Triborough Stadium, and under perfect weather conditions, the Trojans of Southern California piled up 71½ points, highest in the meet's history, to win the team title for the second straight year and the ninth time since 1925.

Winning five individual events, sharing in two others and adding the mile relay championship as a crowning touch, the Trojans spread-eagled the field so badly that Pittsburgh, in second place, had only 26 points.

But Long John Woodruff of Pittsburgh did all that could be expected of a lone Easterner standing up against this 20-man western invasion.

In his final I. C. 4-A., appearance, Woodruff won the 440-yard and 880-yard titles for the third straight year and made this finale the best of the three.

Forced to show fight to retain his quarter-mile honors in a four-man blanket finish which saw him equal the meet record of 47 seconds flat for the third time, he ran a front race in the half-mile an hour and 20 minutes later and set up a new I. C. 4-A., mark of 1 minute 51.2 seconds.

U. S. C.'s team score bettered its own mark of 62¾ points established in 1932 at Berkeley, Calif., Woodruff's 880 lopped seven-tenths of a second off Ben Eastman's seven-year-old standard.

In addition to Woodruff's performances, three new records were made and one meet record was equalled, all by U. S. C.'s representatives. Lou Zamperini, who ran the 5,000 meters on the 1936 U. E. Olympic team brought the one-mile down to 4:11.2.

Red-headed Earl Vickery, who flew over the 220-yard low hurdles in 23.1 in yesterday's eliminations for a new record, hauled that down to 22.8 in final.

And Bob People's javelin throw of 223 feet 11¾ inches, which led the qualifiers yesterday, stood up as the best performance of the two days. U. S. C.'s Jim Humphrey tied the record of 14.4 seconds in winning the 120-yard high hurdles.

Bombeck Wins K. C. Tourney

Defeats Bryne In His First Major Golf Tournament

KANSAS CITY, May 27—(AP)—Ayres Bombeck won his first major golf championship today by defeating his fellow Kansas Citian, Danny Byrne, in the finals of the tenth annual heart of American tournament, 2 up.

Bombeck was runner-up last year to G. W. Duvall, Jr., of Kansas City. Bombeck eliminated Duvall, the defending champion, in a third round match yesterday, 3 and 2.

The new champion held a 2 up lead over young Byrne, a railroad switch tender, after the morning 18 and battled through the afternoon round to protect his edge as Byrne made a courageous effort to stage a winning rally.

Bombeck blew up a chance to end the match on the thirty-fifth when he took three from the back edge to get down and carded a 6 to lose the hole to Byrne with a par 5.

Both had trouble on the thirty-sixth but after Byrne's approach fourth, Bombeck stepped up and holed his long putt for a par 4 to win the hole and the match.

Consider Fish Season Change

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 28—Now under consideration by the Missouri Conservation Commission are proposals for regulations which deal in changes in game and fish seasons, bag and creel limits, regulations on frogs and rabbits. Included also in the proposals is one to require every person more than fourteen years of age to possess a fishing license to fish in public waters.

The tentative draft started at an all-day session of the commission at Jefferson City, May 22 is the result of several months of study, research and conferences with sportsmen, farmers and others. A series of twelve public hearings were conducted early this year and the commission studied stenographic reports of these hearings before starting a revision of the regulations as provided in the conservation amendment. When this preliminary draft is revised the proposed regulations will be discussed with principal interested groups over the state before final adoption. Thus the groups interested in the various matters under consideration by the commission would be given the opportunity to consider the proposals and offer suggestions before final regulations are adopted.

The commission previously had set September 15 as the earliest date on which the new regulations would be effective. If final consideration of the new regulations can be completed by July 1 it will require probably 60 days to complete promulgation before the date of making them effective.

Black Bass Be Placed In Public Waters

JEFFERSON CITY, May 28.—(AP)—More than 100,000 small-mouthed black bass will be planted in public waters in Missouri later this year, the State Conservation Commission said today.

The fish have been obtained from the U. S. hatchery at Mammouth Springs, Ark., through a cooperative agreement between the Conservation Commission and Charles H. Jackson, acting commissioner of the U. S. Bureau of

Maxie Baer Is Favored Over Nova

Both Family Men End Training For Fight On June 1

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP)—Madcap Maxie Baer, who used to be a playboy, and serious Lou Nova, who never was, neared the end of their training grind today, but even at this late date their fight Thursday night still looked as close as ham and eggs.

These two family men from California are due to tangle 15 rounds or less (for the wives and kiddies) in Yankee Stadium, for the right to take on the winner of the June 28 Joe Louis-Tony Galento get-together in September.

Up to now, madcap Maxie, who swears he's given up the pastimes of elbow-bending and whoopie-manufacturing for the home-like habit of rocking the cradle, has been installed as a slight favorite to take the young ex-college clouter.

But Maxie has looked so woeful in training while Lou has shown such improvement, that there are any number of short-enders along bash boulevard these days.

Undoubtedly there will be plenty of empty seats when they climb into the ring for the folks around and about have given indication that they can take this fight or leave it. But Promoter Mike Jacobs probably will count about $100,000 in the till, which, as they say along Jacobs' beach, will put plenty of herring in the pantry.

In addition to their mutual ambition to collect some $50,000 or so for a September title brawl, these two fellows have a lot in common right now. Each has shouted he's out to produce so that the youngster'll be proud of daddy.

Maxie, of course, is 30, has been around a long time, and, while he has an advantage in experience, isn't as frisky as when you first heard him hollering about himself from the west.

Nova, on the other hand, is a strong, fast 24-year-old stand-up fighter, with worlds of ambition. He still has lots to learn, is cocky and in many ways—particularly in his left hand and in his temperamental exciteable characteristics—resembles Gene Tunney.

T. T. Races To Held This Afternoon

The second annual Tourist Trophy motorcycle races will be held this afternoon on the Sedalia Motorcycle club race course eight miles north of Sedalia. The races will begin about 2 o'clock.

Thirty entries have been received from Kansas City, Springfield, Columbia, Independence, Jefferson City, St. Joseph, Sedalia, and the following places in Kansas, Topeka, Lawrence, Leavenworth, and Independence.

Members of the local club have been busy the past three weeks in cutting the track, building steep turns, making deep ditches, and oiling the track to keep dust down. The track in the opinion of visiting cyclists is one of the best in this part of the country.

The committee in charge announced plenty of excitement should be had during the course of the afternoon. Arrangements have been made to have an ambulance on hand in case of any accidents.

Highway 65 north of Sedalia has been well marked so those who plan to attend can easily find the motorcycle park.

Mr. Cochrane was accompanied on his visit to Missouri by Mrs. Cochrane and while here for the two days' visited with Mrs. Cochrane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Martin, on the Cochrane farm south of Otterville.

They left late Friday for a trip which will take them through the east where Mr. Cochrane will visit various Hearst newspapers before returning to Chicago. They are making the trip by automobile.

Judge Otis Answers Critics On Pendergast Sentence

KANSAS CITY, May 27—(AP)—From a carefully prepared document, Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis read in emphatic tones augmented by gestures today his answer to critics of the 15-months prison sentence he assessed against Boss Tom Pendergast for income tax evasion.

Prefacing the sentencing of R. Emmet O'Malley on a similar charge, the jurist termed the Pendergast punishment "exactly in line" with that he had meted out on other guilty pleas and "one of the heaviest ever imposed" on an income tax violator who confessed his crime.

He compared it with prison terms assessed against Kansas City political followers of the boss who had admitted their guilt in vote fraud cases, analyzed it from the viewpoint of Pendergast's bad health and on the basis of judicial principle, then asked:

"Is it possible that an intelligent man will compare that (Al Capone) case with the Pendergast case?"

Capone, the judge said, "had a criminal record x x did not plead guilty x x x fought the government through trial court, court of appeals and the supreme court. "Yet, with all of that, his sentence was three years on each of three counts" plus "one $10,000 fine." Pendergast, indicted on two counts, was fined $10,000 in addition to the prison sentence and placed on five years probation.

The judge made no mention of the press but obviously was referring to editorial attacks on his sentencing of the boss as he answered "the criticism that sentence has received from good men."

Outlines Principles

Outlining the principles on which the sentence was based, the judge concluded with:

"These principles seem to me now as they seemed on Monday to be true and sound. Perhaps I should have ignored them in the Pendergast case alone. Perhaps I should have ignored in that one case precedents and principles and the commands of reason. Perhaps I should have yielded to passion and hatred and revenge. I am glad I did not yield."

In a section of his prepared statement headed "Pendergast sentence analyzed" the judge declared "a suspended penitentiary of three years, with probation for five years, following a penitentiary sentence of a year and three months which actually must be served in a felon's cell is much more than twice a sentence of one year and three months, all to be served."

That is true because "it is in the first year, the first week, the first day after the iron gates have clanged shut that the badge of 'convict' is fastened upon the prisoner." x x x

"Pendergast was sentenced to wear the badoe of 'convict' for one year and three months behind penitentiary walls, in the seclusion of a prison, and then to wear it for five years longer before the eyes of his fellow men."

Referring to Pendergast as "an old and sick man" who "in all probability" faced "a sentence to actual punishment for the remainder of his life," Judge Otis said he did not agree with those who contend:

"He should have been broken under the wheel! At the very least he should have been sentenced to what for him necessarily would have been life imprisonment."

Explaining he had given "careful consideration" to the Pendergast sentence for 10 days in advance, the judge said it was based on these three principles:

1. "The attempt to evade the payment of a tax is not a crime malum in se, as is murder, rape and theft. It is a crime malum prohibitum. Oridinarly the only penalty for the offense is a civil penalty in 99 out of 100 cases wear the badge of 'convict' for any doubt that a citizen has attempted to evade the full payment of his income tax, the government has accepted the tax plus the civil penalty."

2. "If one is charged with attempting to evade a tax and pleads guilty to that charge he should not be punished for a score of other crimes with which he is not charged, as to which the law conclusively presumes his innocence."

3. While a judge may consider "mitigating and aggravating circumstances" in assessing punishment the circumstances "must be connected with the crime." Such circumstances include previous attempts to evade taxes, other previous crimes and the amount of money involved. "But it is absurd to say that the source from which a citizen receives income, however bad, or the purpose for which he receives it, however evil, is an aggravating circumstance of an attempt by him to avoid payment of an income tax."

On only one of 16 vote fraud cases in which he received guilty pleas did he assess a prison sentence, Judge Otis said, and that for only a year and a day. None of the 81 who entered nolo contendere pleas to vote fraud before him "was required to serve a day in jail."

As court opened Judge Otis read a telegram from James W. Morris, assistant United States attorney in charge of income tax matters, declaring the Pendergast sentence "quite in line with comparable cases" and all treasury officials with whom he had discussed the subject "entirely satisfied."

Aged Farmer Is Robbed By Gypsy Band

Take Over $60 From Joe Musick; Woman Does Dirty Work

Joe Musick, 85-year-old farmer living about 20 miles south of Versailles, was robbed of over $60 by a band of gypsies yesterday morning, while he was walking down a road to his farm.

Musick reported that two cars, one a model A. Ford with an Alabama license and the other a Pontiac coach with Mississippi plates, drove past him and then stopped.

A woman got out of the car, he said, and came back along the road to where he was. She seized the aged farmer and took his money. The two cars then drove off towards Versailles.

When they arrived in Versailles, they were picked up by police there for investigation and the numbers on their license plates checked with the highway patrol. No report had come in at that time on the robbery of Musick, and they were later released.

About 30 minutes after they left Versailles, Musick managed to reach a phone and call the Versailles police. They immediately contacted the state patrol and a report was broadcast. However, the gypsies had not been picked up last night.

Deputy Sheriff Kennedy of Versailles said last night there were about 11 persons in the party, men, women and children.

Edward I. Love Dies In Train Wreck On Friday Night

portions filled Gray's creek, which overflowed and carried away track support before the arrival of the freight train.

The train careened when the track broke, throwing cars as far as fifty feet from the right of away. Webb, the brakeman, said that the track gave suddenly under the train's thirty mile speed and twenty-three of the cars left the track, throwing poultry, eggs, scrap iron and other contents in all directions. Two cars landed in the creek at the side of the right of way. The force of the crash demolished a small bridge.

Sedalian Many Years

Mr. Love had been a resident of Jefferson City the past twenty-seven or twenty-eight years. He was born in Lexington, Mo., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dudley Love, April 19, 1887. He was about three years old when the family moved to Sedalia, the family home being for many years at 1712 East Seventh street.

He attended the grade and high schools in Sedalia, and in about 1903 went to work in the Missouri Pacific shops, as a boilermaker apprentice. He went to firing for the Missouri Pacific in 1907 and in 1912 was promoted to an engineer, continuing in that service continuously. He had always been on the eastern division of the road.

In 1907 Mr. Love was married to Miss Laura Mae Gamber, and she survives, as do four children, Mrs. Verna Oxley, wife of L. F. Oxley, North Hollywood, Calif., Mrs. John A. Rose, Sedalia; Kenneth U. Love, assistant advertising manager and director of circulation for the Sedalia Democrat and Capital, Sedalia, and Duane Love, of Kansas City. He leaves also his 85-year-old mother, Mrs. Jennie E. Love, Shawnee, Kas., two brothers, T. W. Love, Jefferson City and J. Martin Love, Alexander, La., and one sister, Mrs. Leo T. Wendleton, Shawnee, Kas.

Father Killed By Engine

His father, the late J. Dudley Love, also an engineer, was killed near the roundhouse in Sedalia, December 13, 1918, run over by an engine. He had just alighted from his own engine and started to cross the tracks, going home, when the accident occurred.

Mr. Love was one of a family of twelve children. A sister, Leona, was burned to death at the age of three years; another sister, Anita, died suddenly of croup at the age of six; two brothers, Richard and Dudley, died at the ages of 21 and 14, respectively, of typhoid fever; another brother, Owen Love, died in France after being gassed in the Argonne.

Mrs. Jennie Love, his mother, has not been told of the tragedy.

Mrs. Laura Love, wife of the deceased, who has been ill for five months, is prostrated and has not been seeing anyone except immediate relatives, at her home in Jefferson City.

Funeral On Monday

Mr. Love was baptized in the Broadway Presbyterian church in Sedalia when a child, and funeral services will be held there at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The casket will not be opened.

The funeral party will come direct from Jefferson City to the Sedalia church, and interment will be in Crown Hill cemetery here.

The word that Mr. Love was killed was received in Sedalia by his son, Kenneth U. Love, 705 West Fourth street, who, with his sister, Mrs. John A. Rose, 2308 East Broadway, left immediately for Jefferson City. Another brother, Duane Love, of Kansas City, arrived in Sedalia about 3 o'clock and drove on to Jefferson City, accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Love.

Mr. Love, the deceased, spent Thursday night at the home of his mother and sister in Shawnee. They enjoyed a visit together, and when he left for the station to start on his last trip, was accompanied by his son, Duane, whose custom it was to take his father to Union station.

Mr. Lackey, a veteran of the World war, was born in DeSoto, Mo., and had been a resident of Jefferson City for the past 25 years. He served in France during the war and was a member of the V. of F. W. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Mercedes. He had been engaged in railroading ever since the war.

Johnstown Is Again At Top

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP)—Johnstown came back to the top of the three-year-old parade today.

Given a lightning fast track, Jamestown's Big Boy, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and then major disappointment of the Preakness, waltzed home with the time-honored Withers mile by ten lengths, before 17,000 at Belmont Park, in record-equaling time.

William Woodward's whirlwind broke on top, was three lengths in front at the half mile and galloped on to the finish in 1 minute, 35 4-5 seconds, tieing the stake record Man O' War set in 1920.

The long striding bay and his entry mate, Gilded Knight, returned the meager sum of $1 for each $8 bet on them to win this 64-year-old stake for three-year-olds.

For Johnstown and Owner Woodward, the victory was worth $15,750, bringing the 1939 money winnings for Jamestown's tall son to $87,625, and his total racing earnings for his two-year career to $119,045.

Trapped Miner Is Still Alive

SHENADOAH, Pa., May 27.—(AP)—Faint subterranean tappings and later the sound of a voice told rescuers today that Robert Galligan, 38-year-old miner, still lived in the deep mountainside coal hole where a rock slide imprisoned him yesterday morning.

The signals spurred them to new efforts as they tunneled into the side of rugged Locust mountain with a team shovel, power drills and implements.

The first tappings were heard 22 hours after the coal hole collapsed with a rumble while Galligan was 75 feet below the surface.

Sentence Of Year And Day Given To O'Malley

local to state and national affairs as the boss rose from saloonkeeper to a political dictator.

Bitter Fight Waged

Governor Lloyd C. Stark who fired O'Malley and has waged a bitter intra-party war on Pendergast today ordered steps taken to recover for policyholders 80 per cent of the $9,500,000 in impounded premiums which under the compromise went to the risk companies. He asked Ray B. Lucas, state insurance superintendent, to seek contempt citations against Pendergast, O'Malley "and others" for the "admitted fraud."

Both Pendergast and O'Malley will be eligible for parole in the fall, federal officials explaining, a prisoner might apply for parole at the termination of a third of his sentence. If paroles are denied, sentences may be reduced six days each month for good behavior.

On arrival at the penitentiary, the two will be isolated for thirty days in quarantine in the prison hospital. The first renewal of their friendship thereafter probably will come on the prison recreation grounds where they will meet others from the political organization who are serving for the vote frauds.

In presenting the charges against O'Malley, Maurice M. Milligan said the 65 year old former insurance superintendent made a "mockery" of court processes "by palming off on the court a fradulent and corrupt settlement of the fire insurance rate litigation."

He charged O'Malley made the first move to bring Pendergast and the risk companies representatives together to work out a deal.

A three judge federal court will convene here Monday to hear a plea for reopening of the insurance compromise and petitions for returning approximately $8,000,000 to policyholders.

Telegram From Morris

Before this statement he read a telegram from James W. Morris, assistant United States attorney general, which said:

"All things considered, Pendergast sentence quite in line with comparable cases."

Like Pendergast, O'Malley had no comment on his sentence.

Since his discharge at the statehouse, he had been head of Kansas City's water department, but took a leave of absence after his indictment last month by the federal grand jury.

Milligan told the court Mrs. O'Malley was in a St. Louis hotel when O'Malley received $40,000 of the payoff money and that she took charge of it and placed it in a safe deposit box in a Kansas City bank in the name of her niece, Mrs. Adaline Cross.

O'Malley, the prosecutor added, believed he had covered up the evidence of the deal and told A. L. McCormack, St. Louis insurance man who acted as a go-between in the compromise he "was glad he had put the money in a safe place."

Intricate Plan To Raise Sub

scene of the sinking 15 miles off shore, most of the 33 survivors, brought up by an escape bell Wednesday, were ready for new duty. Bronchial ailments bothered one or two, but doctors said they would be out of the hospital at the navy yard in the near future.

Although some relatives of the men who lost their lives in the disaster came to the yard to claim their bodies, officers planned to wait until the Squalus was brought to the surface and towed to dry-dock before removing the tragic cargo.

In nearby Dover sat a weeping mill worker, pretty Ruth Desautel, who was to have been married this afternoon to Sherman Shirley, of Little Rock, Ark., a torpedoman on the Squalus. In her heart she bore no ill-will to Lloyd B. Manns, of Greensboro, N. C., who was to have been the best man and who saved the 32 other men by slamming shut a door on the 26 as water rose in the ship.

"What he did was perfectly right," said Miss Desautel. "I hold nothing against him and expect him to come to see me when it is all over."

Condolences On Dr. Mayo

services. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

Business in the city, mecca for thousands of ailing persons from all parts of the world, will be suspended from 3 to 5 p. m. Monday under proclamation by Mayor Paul A. Grassle.

Stricken with pneumonia while returning to Rochester from Arizona, Dr. Mayo, 73, lay in Mercy hospital, Chicago for eight days until death came Friday.

Passes Away in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 26.—(AP)—Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous Rochester, Minn., surgeon, died of pneumonia at 4:55 p. m. Central Standard Time today at Mercy hospital.

The death of the elderly medic who developed the famed Mayo Clinic at Rochester was announced by Dr. Thomas Jan Dry, a member of the clinic staff.

Dr. Mayo was stricken with pneumonia here eight days ago.

His wife, son and three daughters were at his bedside when he died.

Rushed To Hospital

Five physicians had striven to save the life of the 73 year old doctor, one of the world's most distinguished surgeons, since he became ill in a hotel here last Thursday night and was rushed to the hospital.

Dr. Mayo spent much of the time in an oxygen tent. He also received a blood transfusion from his son, Dr. Charles W. Mayo, last Wednesday night, but failed to rally.

Behind him, as a monument to a life devoted to treating the sick, rich and poor, he left the huge medical center at Rochester, which has attracted as many as 80,000 patients a year.

His brother, William J. Mayo, 77, who cooperated in building the internationally known clinic, was at his home in Rochester, recovering from a recent operation.

Arduous Schooling

Dr. Mayo was born in Rochester July 19, 1865. He received his grade and high school education in Rochester schools, then entered the Chicago Medical College, now part of Northwestern University. He was graduated M. D. in 1888, then went to the New York Polyclinic, winning another M. D. degree there in 1889. Another year in the New York Post Graduate Medical School brought him a special certificate in 1890.

Thereafter, except for brief intervals of research at various schools and hospitals at home and abroad, he shared the Mayo practice with his father and brother. He quit operating in 1929 but continued consultations.

His thousands of operations included more than 700 for cataracts of the eye, but he was skilled in all branches of his profession. He generally was recognized as the originator of modern goitre surgery, as a pioneer in surgery of the nervous system and as a master workman in operations on the brain, ear, nose and throat.

A noted European physician said of Dr. Charles: "He is a most skillful and versatile surgeon, operating with equal facility upon every part of the body, and he has the soul and the hands of an artist."

Risk Settlement Be Reopened In Federal Court

money he received."

O'Malley's counsel had told the court that the former insurance superintendent, "still insists that a settlement good for the state was made." He referred to "O'Malley's emphatic contention that never at any time did he fail to insist upon what he should insist upon in making a settlement as a public official."

Three Judge Court

The three-judge court is composed of Circuit Judge Kimbrough Stone and District Judges Albert L. Reeves and Otis, who approved the compromise settlement.

Under the compromise, 137 insurance companies and their agents received 80 per cent and policyholders received only 20 per cent of more than $9,500,000 of excess premiums impounded in federal court.

The state insurance department now will seek return of the entire amount of the impounded funds to the policy holders. Two policyholder actions seeking the same result also are pending.

Attorneys for the Ward-Coppage Mercantile Company of Caruthersville, Mo., filed an amended petition yesterday citing fraud as another reason why the compromise should be set aside. Attorneys for Frank Dickson and O. W. Witmer, Kansas City policyholders, also filed a motion yesterday to intervene and to set aside the court's decree accepting the 80-20 per cent settlement.

The litigation started after the companies had served notice December 20, 1929, that fire insurance rates in Missouri would be increased 16⅔ per cent. Joseph B. Thompson, then superintendent of insurance, refused to approve the increase. The companies, however, collected the increased rates and sought injunctions in federal court here and the circuit court of Cole county to prevent Thompson from interfering with the collection. The courts ordered the excess premiums impounded.

Submits Plan To Revise Act On Neutrality

the secretary of state wrote Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the Senate committee and Acting Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) of the House group, "would make easier our twofold task of keeping this country at peace and avoiding imposition of unnecessary burdens upon our citizens."

Stamped with administration endorsement, the proposals were submitted after a series of conferences with Hull by the Democratic members of both committees. They were understood to have Mr. Roosevelt's approval.

Coincident with Hull's statement Bloom disclosed that his committee has a draft of a bill embodying the secretary's ideas on the subject and would give it early consideration.

Under the present neutrality law, the president must declare an embargo against shipment of arms to belligerents as soon as he recognizes a state of war exists.

Congressional advocates of repealing this section have argued it would be "unneutral" for the United States, in event of war in Europe, to deny Great Britain and France freedom to buy arms here to defend themselves against heavily-armed Germany and Italy.

Hull suggested there was no sound basis for differentiating between arms and raw materials necessary to a country engaged in war.

Rigid Embargo "Ruinous"

"A nation at war," he said, "is no less anxious to keep cotton or petroleum, or, indeed, any useful product, from reaching an enemy nation than it is to keep guns and airplanes from reaching the enemy's armed forces.

"I doubt whether we can help ourselves to keep out of war by an attempt on our part to distinguish between categories of exports. Yet a complete embargo upon all exports would obviously be ruinous to our economic life.

"President Roosevelt," Hull noted, "observed when signing the 1935 Neutrality Act, that the arms embargo provisions required "further and more complete consideration."

The president said then that "the inflexible provisions might drag us into war instead of keeping us out."

Bloom's disclosure that his committee already has a draft of a bill to carry out the secretary's proposal gave added credence to reports that the administration would seek first consideration of neutrality legislation in the House.

Greater opposition to changes along the line Hull suggested has been manifested in the Senate.

Pittman has a bill for repeal of the arms embargo and placing all sales to belligerents on a "cash-and-carry" basis — that is, to require them to pay cash and haul their purchases away in their own ships.

Makes Ready To Receive Royalty

HYDE PARK, N. Y., May 27.——(AP)—President Roosevelt dug out some old clothes and began an extended but quiet week-end today by looking over his family home and estate, which will be opened two weeks hence to visiting British royalty.

Word was passed along that the "lid is on"—that there would be no public announcements and little news from the President, but the chief executive did receive Ferdinand Pecora, New York supreme court justice, in the afternoon.

Pecora's call was described as "social."

Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the President's 84-year-old mother, greeted her son when he arrived this morning.

So that she might have everything in readiness for the royal couple, the senior Mrs. Roosevelt has decided to remain in Hyde Park instead of going to Washington to join in the welcome to the heads of the British empire.

In contrast with the formal receptions and dinners in the capital, a typical American picnic lunch is planned here.

Senate Clears Decks Of One Rail Problem

Favors Tribunal To Handle Cases Of Bankruptcy

WASHINGTON, May 27—(AP)—The senate cleared its decks today of another piece of major railroad relief legislation, approving and sending to the house a bill to set up a special five-judge federal court to expedite handling of bankruptcy and receivership cases.

The measure was passed on a voice vote that left the opposition unrecorded, but a group led by Senator Clark (D-Mo) fought against passage until the last.

The Missourian, contending that establishing the new court might have "disastrous and disgraceful results, "told his colleagues that Thomas D. Corcoa, youthful president adviser, would select the judges. The measure provides for their appointment by the President.

The senate's action left only one of a series of administration-sponsored railroad bills on its calendar. It is a house-approved measure which would permit carriers in temporary financial difficulties to obtain voluntary agreements from stockholders for postonement of maturity dates on obligations.

The senate previously had passed a bill consolidating regulatory control of all transportation, except aerial, under the interstate commerce commission.

Defeat Amendment

Before approving the court bill the senate voted down an amendment proposed by Clark which would have stripped the new tribunal of its judicial status and a proposal by Senator McCarran (D-Nev) to send the measure to the judiciary committee for study.

Clark's remark that Corcoran would choose the judges came when Senator Adams (D-Colo) observed that President Roosevelt had "ignored" the section of the country west of the Mississippi river in making high judicial appointments.

"Does the senator from Colorado doubt that any of the five men to be selected by Mr. Thomas D. Corcoran would have all wisdom?" Clark asked.

The Missourian argued that a five-man court, sitting in Washington, could not possibly be as familiar with local conditions as federal judges operating in their own districts.

Adams said he was opposed to the "tremendous concentration of power" in the new tribunal.

Proponents of the bill for the most part remained silent, contenting themselves with letting the opposition have its say. Senator Austin (R-Vt) came to the general defense of the bill, however, describing it as necessary if rail bankruptcies and receiverships were to be expedited.

Chamberlain Still For Peace

By J. C. STARK

LODONN, May 27—(AP)—Neville Chamberlain, at the end of two critical and policy-changing years as prime minister, was reported tonight to be looking beyond completion of what he terms "a peace front against aggression" to a possible world conference in a further attempt to reach a settlement with the Rome-Berlin axis without war.

He left Thursday to spend the Whitsun (a religious) holiday, in the country confident of an early agreement with Soviet Russia on a mutual aid pact to supply the most vital missing link in the British-French system replaced his "appeasement" policy.

But the cares of office followed him, in the forefront of which was believed the question of how to make a new, peaceful approach to Reichfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini once he has massed equal or superior strength on his side.

Some observers believed he was leaning toward the idea of summoning a conference of the nations of the world where each would be invited to submit any grievances for discussion.

Advocates of such a plan argued that refusal by Hitler and Mussolini to be represented or to define their demands for "living space" would weaken the belief of their own people in the charges of "encirclement" against the British-French front and therefore might bring their participation.

How soon the prime minister would summon a conference, if he decided on that method, is a matter of conjecture but it is admitted he would have to move cautiously to avoid an impression both at home and in allied countries that he was returning to his "appeasement" policy.

Broad Outline Is Presented On Tax Revision

of his entire statement. In addition to outlining a basis for changes in the federal tax structure, the treasury secretary also proposed creation of a small temporary national commission to study "over-lapping and competing taxes" of federal, state and municipal governments and propose a solution without delay.

Morgenthau was the only witness at today's session of the committee which adjourned until Monday.

Questioned after reading his statement, the treasury head emphasized that what revision of corporate taxes was undertaken at this time should not curtail existing revenues.

"If tax revision were confined to tax reductions," he said, "the resulting uncertainty as to our future fiscal position would injure and not help business."

'World Crusaders' Presented; Directed By Mrs. Leach

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Leach have returned home from Springfield, Mo., where on three nights in the Shrine Mosque, Mrs. Leach's opera, "World Crusaders," was presented with a cast of 2,025 persons. The Springfield Music Club sponsored the music and this opera formed Springfield's main celebration of National Music Week. An 80-piece orchestra, 225 voices formed the chorus from glee clubs of Drury College, State Teachers College, the Springfield high school and choirs from the various churches, which was directed by one of Missouri's finest directors, Dean T. Stanley Skinner of Drury College. The great pipe organ, manipulated by two skilled organists, pealed forth glorious music. Two bands, several drum and bugle corps gave a really magnificent musical setting to this opera, which was given earlier in the season with much favor in Sedalia.

The churches, both Protestant and Catholic, assisted in this undertaking and many Jewish friends also were in the cosmopolitian cast that put over a tremendous production. Much talent was available owing to the colleges, many of the teachers and dramatic instructors participating in the cast. "World Crusaders" has been put on with success in many large cities of this country.

An unusual coincident in regard to this production was that Mr. Jewell Windle, president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, was general chairman for the event. He also was chairman for the Springfield and Greene County Centennial which was written and directed by Mrs. Leach several years ago.

The Springfield Leader and Press carried pages of pictures of scenes from the cast of the opera. The Press, in one issue, said in part: "The busiest person in Springfield last night was Mrs. Frank S. Leach, of Sedalia, the director of the opera. Everybody asked her questions and to everybody she had some instructions to give," and in describing the back stage excitement of the first night, the Leader and Press said: "Behind the curtain National Guardsmen rolled dice or lounged on piles of sand bags all ready to start their battle scene, in the wings, in the dressing rooms and in the huge basement banquet hall, milled hundreds of the cast, finding their assigned places and everywhere was Mrs. Leach, the director, and author of the vast spectacle, fluttering from one group to another in such rapid succession that the photographers gave up trying to focus their cameras on her."

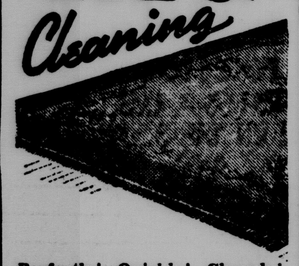

An appropriate thing happened on the last night, climaxing the great endeavor, when Frank Knox, cashier of the Union National Bank of Springfield, who was also on the committee, presented to Major Dallas Leader, of the Salvation Army, a deed to a plot of ground which had been bought with the $1,000 profit that had been realized from the opera and upon which there will be started a recreational center and boys' club for under privileged boys of Springfield.

Spoke At Banquet

Mrs. Leach was entertained by many friends while in Springfield, and she enjoyed working with friends that had helped to make her dreams of the Centennial come true as well as her elaborate plans for "World Crusaders." At a banquet with some 250 guests held at the Y. W. C. A. at which she was one of the speakers, she was presented by the chairman as the "Cecil De Mille of the middle west."

Mrs. Leach says that where ever she might go receiving honors and acclaim as she has done, that her mind will ever revert with most real joy, to the loyal and steadfast support given to her by the citizens and cast in her own home town last November, when "World Crusaders" was presented at the Sedalia high school, when Helen G. Steele Music Club and the musicians of the city and county gave that beautiful music for her opera, Mrs. E. F. Yancey standing back of all of the music, as chairman; T. J. Alexander directing the high school orchestra and Burney Morris the choir of trained voices, and a cast of over 1,000 people that did their utter most to present a finished performance! All of that, she says, remains in her heart as a precious memory, as also will the trill of the immense audiences that packed the Smith-Cotton high school from door to door for two nights.

State History D. A. R. Topic

The Osage Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on Saturday afternoon enjoyed one of the most delightful meetings of the year at the beautiful home of Mrs. George Bichsel, 619 West Third street.

The rare antique furniture, china, silver, glass and treasures of art provided great enjoyment, and this was added to by a most interesting and unusual talk by Mr. Lilburn Kingsbury, president of the Cooper-Howard counties Historical Society, and a kinsman of Miss Nina Harris, regent of the Osage chapter.

His talk covered the history of central Missouri, the Boone's Lick country from 1808 on, during the trouble with the British and Indians when the settlers, under the leadership of Col. Benjamin Cooper refused to leave that land of promise and established a chain of forts in pioneer homes which held the territory until peace was made.

After this came the survey of the Santa Fe trail starting from St. Charles in the east and extending across the state. Along this trail grew up a chain of taverns like hospitable homes for the travelers. The earliest were log houses of three rooms with a half story above for sleeping accommodations; the capacity being limited by the number of feather beds that could be laid on the floor, and the cost being determined by the number that slept in a bed.

These taverns were important centers of all political and social interest. In the Missouri Tavern at St. Charles, the first Missouri legislature met, the first governor was installed, and the first senator chosen. The Daughters of the American Revolution have placed markers on the sites of all early taverns on the trail and now maintain the restored tavern at Arrow Rock, furnished completely in furniture of the period, and containing a valuable historical museum.

At the end of the program Mrs. Bichsel and her assisting hostesses, Mesdames George E. Dugan, J. C. Ragsdale and Leslie Layne served refreshments in the dining room, after which all visited Mrs. Bichsel's lovely and perfect gardens.

Mrs. Claire L. Montgomery Is Given Farewell

Women Tender Her Tribute At Court House Saturday

One hundred seventy-five Pettis county women, representing all sections of the county, met in the assembly room of the court house Saturday afternoon, to bid farewell to Mrs. Claire L. Montgomery, county home demonstration agent, who is leaving soon for Texas county to reside.

It was with sincere regret that the women, representing thirty-two clubs organized by Mrs. Montgomery during the past eleven years, told her goodbye. She has been "one of them" as well as a leader among them, they have appreciated her ability and grown to love her. It was to express this feeling that they arranged the farewell party.

Flowers, large bouquets and small ones, some gifts of friends in the city and county, some sent by commercial houses, decorated the assembly room. Mrs. W. P. Tucker presided over the program, during which Mrs. Montgomery was presented with a gift one dollar from each club she had organized.

Mrs. Tucker presented the following numbers:

Community singing.

Songs by a quartette, Mrs. C. L. Rages of Hughesville and her three daughters.

Singing by County Extension clubs chorus.

Reading, Miss Gladys Ferguson.

Piano solo, Mrs. Harry Leaton.

A tribute to Mrs. Montgomery by James McCurdy, expressing the love and esteem the homemakers feel for her, and their wish for her success and happiness in her new field of work.

Mrs. Tucker, in closing, read the following:

"Listen my children and you shall hear, a story of one whom we think very dear,

Mrs. Montgomery came to us in 1928, and began at once to make Pettis county one of the best in the state.

She has to her honor thirty-two clubs with 750 members, all whom she loves.

With her cooperation we have won state honors, national honors three master homemakers, 4-H club and champion pie makers with fruit from the famous cherry tree.

No wonder when Texas county wanted a leader,

The Extension department thought of Mrs. Montgomery, for where could they beat her.

So now we must yield to a higher hand, and wish her health, wealth and happiness in the beautiful southland."

Body Builds Defenses Against Infections If Given a Chance

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Were it not for the fact that each of us possesses within our body mechanisms which mobilize when war on the integrity of the organism occurs, the human race would soon disappear. The human body is constantly subjected to innumerable forms of attack.

We have to have a certain definite temperature. In the maintenance of this temperature, we are troubled by heat and cold. When the skin is intact it can resist all sorts of invasions but when it is broken or cut, germs can get in. The bones may be broken by force but they may be weakened by failure to secure a suitable diet. If we are in an altitude that is too high or in a place where the pressure on the surface of the body is too great, we succumb to our surroundings.

The human body posseses mechanisms for meeting each of these emergencies to a certain extent. Beyond the point at which it cannot further react comes breakdown and possibly death.

The best example of the way in which the body can fight an infection is seen in the case of a pimple. A pimple will occur where there has been failure to keep the skin clean or where there has been a slight injury or where for some other reason the circulation has become poor and the tissues weakened.

The germs which produce infection are always around us—in the air and on the surface of our bodies, and frequently they collect particularly in open pores or around the roots of the hair. If for any reason the tissues are weakened, these germs begin to multiply and to develop poisonous materials when they are alive or as a result of their own death, and then to irritate the cells of the body.

This irritation sets up a reaction and may actually damage the walls of the tiny blood vessels in the skin. Then the material gets out of the blood vessels and the white blood cells begin to gather in the region and to take up the poisons and the germs which are responsible for the infection. The white blood cells and the material from the blood will wall off the infected area so that the infected material cannot spread.

If, however, someone who does not understand the condition squeezes the pimple very hard or presses upon it, they may break down this wall before it is fully formed and thus actually cause the infection to spread into the rest of the body.

If, however, the pimple is allowed to go through the process which we call "ripening," the infected material dissolved by the white blood cells will be seen as a white fluid under a thinned out skin. At this time the pimple may break or be broken so that the infected material will be released from the body. Thus the reaction that has taken place in the skin has served to protect the body as a whole.

Obviously, when this reaction takes place somewhere in the interior of the body, as, for example, in the appendix, it is impossible for the infected material to get out without having the appendix break. Moreover, if the appendix breaks, the infected material gets into the interior of the abdomen and may there set up what causes peritonitis.

It is in cases of this type that the doctor and the surgeon contribute most. They know how to localize infection and at the proper time how to release it so that the spot at which the infection occurs may become clean and the body as a whole become saved from general infection and subsequent death.

Children Do Chatter—And Long-Suffering Mother Is Their Pet Audience

Children of tender years love to chatter and be heard. The best audience in the world is mother. She gets a broadside from morning to night and the wonder is that she is so patient and sweet about it.

The other day on the train, a lovely mother and two children had the section next to mine. Elsie was about ten. Little brother was six or so.

Mother had a voice as soft and sweet as Shakespeare's model woman. But Buddy's voice had no indoor restraint. Someday he will be either a runner-up in a hog calling show, or else the best baritone in the Met. And Buddy wanted some questions answered.

"Mommy, has the train a speedometer?"

"I don't think so, dear.

"How can they tell how fast the train is going?

"They have—they have—Well maybe it is a speedometer. There is some sort of a gauge to tell the engineer."

"Can we walk through the train to see the engine?"

"We would not be allowed to see inside the engine, dear. But dont talk so loudly. Remember there are people here who want to be very quiet."

Buddy Causes More Excitement

The train stopped for ten minutes at a station. Of course they had to get out so Buddy could see the other trains better. When they returned it seemed that Buddy had lost something. "You see, dear, I told you to put it in your pocket. And you would not. It is best to do as I say. It may be a lesson to you."

Much searching. The other passengers were searching, too. There was something about a lollypop. I know that was what I was looking for under my seat. I wondered at all the to-do about a lost lollypop.

But then it came out that mother thought Buddy had lost his dollar watch. Elsie said, "We were all talking about something different. His watch is in his pocket.'

Peace at last. Buddy was asleep. And mother at peace. No wonder nap time is popular with mothers.

Florence Nightingale First Wartime Nurse

THE Crimean War broke with horrible toll in the spring of 1854, but death on the battlefields was only the beginning. The real toll followed in the shambles that served as base hospitals, the Turkish barracks at Scutari.

Reports of the disease and the suffering and the dying filtered out from Scutari and back to England and the result was intense feeling at home. There was a call for women to nurse the soldiers. Florence Nightingale, daughter of an upper middle-class English family, heard that appeal and headed a mercy expedition which turned the course of history on all battlefields.

Florence Nightingale and a group of 34 nurses arrived in Turkey on the day of the bloody battle of Inkerman. There were 2300 patients in one barracks alone and before night the number had swelled to 5000—victims of Inkerman.

But the number of men was not so staggering as was the army of disease and filth that confronted Miss Nightingale and her volunteers. She found mattresses strewn in the corridors, the wards permeated with cholera, fever and poisoning. Men had no adequate diet, wounds were undressed, there was mud in the beds.

That was the task Florence Nightingale faced—and conquered. She reduced the death rate from 42 to 2 per cent at Scutari. At the same time she set a pattern of wartime humanity which has endured for all time. She is shown above on a current Belgian stamp.

Wheat Declines Over A Cent

CHICAGO, May 27.—(AP)—Rains that have revived hopes for much wheat in the southwest and virtually broken the drought in the spring wheat belt caused selling which lowered prices more than a cent a bushel in the Chicago market today.

Although rains have been experienced most of the week in many sections of the belt, particularly in the northwest, this was the first session in which the market showed any unusual weakness. Establishment of the season's best prices yesterday at levels 10 cents higher than a month ago and 7 to 10 cents better than a year ago attracted profit taking and the market had less support from milling and other commercial interests than was the case yesterday.

After advancing to within small fractions of yesterday's best levels with net gains of as much as ⅝ cent, prices took a definitely lower course as selling expanded. The day's lows of 77⅝c for July and September contracts were about 1¼ cents below the highs. Despite slight rallies from these levels, wheat closed ½ to ⅞ cent lower than yesterday, with July and September at 78c to 78⅛c.

Weather conditions dominated other grain pits. Corn, oats and rye were lower throughout the session, which the rains reported to be particularly beneficial to the feed grains. Continued heavy receipts of corn attracted attention, totaling more than 300 cars here again today. Primary markets have received about 28 per cent more corn this week than last week.

Lard weakness was in sympathy with grains.

Stocks Stronger During Week

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—With trends continuing to point toward recovery, the stock market today finished its best week since the middle of April.

Unlike many recent Saturdays, volume was on the expanding side. While late realizing cut gains running to a point or so at the close, steels, rails and specialties were well in front.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues retained a net advance of .3 of a point at 47.5. For the week this composite was up 2.2 points. The day's turnover amounted to 382,360 shares compared with 193,280 last Saturday.

The day's news, on the whole, was on the side of rising prices. Principal attention, however, centered on Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's testimony before the house ways and means committee in which he criticized the undistributed profits tax and urged congressional study of other levies which, he suggested, might be amended in the interest of promoting "lasting business recovery." At the same time, the official warned that tax changes must not reduce federal revenue.

Steels revived as forecasts of next week's mill operations indicated a brisk upswing with virtually all centers participating.

Motors pushed up for a while, but dipped at the last as the strike at the Detroit plants of Briggs Manufacturing continued.

Stocks ending behind plus signs in the brief session included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Goodyear, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Standard Oil of N. J., Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, American Telephone and Douglas Aircraft.

Attendance in boardrooms was sparse, many traders leaving for a long holiday in view of the closing of the exchange next Tuesday for Memorial Day.

Bonds, led by rails, took a turn for the better in the latter part of the day's proceedings. Commodities, after their long uphill pull, took a rest in irregular territory.

State Capital Newsreel

JEFFERSON CITY, May 28—(AP)—The legislature, which has heard no end of speeches on the virtues of the state highway patrol, had a little practical demonstration this week. . . . A vacuum cleaner disappeared from the house of representatives and caused considerable gossip reflecting on the personal integrity of first one person and another. . . Finally the highway patrol was called in to track down the missing cleaner. . . . Next day it reappeared as mysteriously as it had gone. . . .

Senator Allen McReynolds was host at a strawberry feast for the legislators the other day. . . The strawberries were furnished by the Carthage Chamber of Commerce. . . .

Signs of summer: The air conditioner in the governor's office has been put in service. . You never see the governor's chief clerk, Bill Marsh, without a cigar in his mouth. . . . The slant of the stogie bespeaks his humor at the moment.. . . . Things hum when the cigar points to the ceiling. . . .

Reminder: You can fish after Monday's midnight. . . .

There was an undertone of drama Thursday when definite word came from the senate committee room that the famed Casey-Kinney-Brogan trio had cracked over the Kansas City police bill. . . . Old observers at the capitol said it was the first time in memory that the three had parted on an important issue. After the meeting was over Senator Michael Kinney, who left the other two to vote for the police bill, remarked:

"Well, all in all it was a pretty exciting day." . . .

King and Queen To Ride Locomotive

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 27—(Canadian Press)—King George and Queen Elizabeth will ride in a pusher-type locomotive at the rear of the royal train for 20 miles tomorrow in the Rocky mountains.

The request to travel a short distance that way through the scenic Rockies was believed to have been made by the king, himself, Canadian Pacific railway officials here said.

Their majesties will board the locomotive at Beavermouth, B. C., 63 miles west of Field, where the train enters British Columbia.

Silver Tablet In Tribute To S-C Graduates

'S' Club Honors 'Pat' Poundstone And Paul Lingle

With the placing this week of the silver tablet in the trophy case of Smith-Cotton high school, the "S" Club has completed its first annual award of "The Most Valuable Student" of Smith-Cotton. This award, which is to be made each year, recognizes the senior graduates, boy or girl, who have made the most outstanding contributions to their school during the years in which they have been members of the student body. It is made upon the basis of scholarship, leadership, honesty, loyalty and meritorious accomplishment.

The two seniors to win the award this year were Miss Patricia Poundstone, and Mr. Paul Lingle, each of whom have been outstanding in their work in school, and who have won the regard of both students and faculty for their efforts on behalf of their school and its student body.

The selection of nominees for the award is made on a two-fold basis. The senior council of the school selects five boys and five girls, and the senior teachers submit a list of five boys and five girls. From these lists the nominees for the award are obtained. The committee in charge of the award then makes a check of the scholarship of the nominees in the office of the principal, and those of superior scholarship are then submitted for further investigation.

Neighbors, ministers, and employers of the nominees are sent a confidential letter in regard to the character, personality, leadership, and home relations of the candidates, and this information is submitted to the committee.

The next step is the personal contact of the committee with the nominees, in which the committee itself trys to familiarize itself with the students whose names are still considered eligible. This information, then, is brought to the final committee meeting where the committee meets with a selected group of responsible students of the school. In this meeting the nominees are discussed and the reaction of the students of the school to the nominees is gained. The students are questioned as to the comparative merits of the nominees and the answers put on file. The committee then votes by secret ballot until all nominees are eliminated but one each of the boys and girls, and these two are selected as the "Most Valuable Students."

Selection Difficult

Commenting on this year's selection the "S" Club president, Cline Cain, stated: "I never knew it would be so hard to select two people. We established the award to let the students of the school know that those now out of school are still interested in the good work of those who are still in school, but we didn't realize that there were so many worthy students in Smith-Cotton, and when you try to compare the good points of one student with those of another, the task becomes gigantic. This year we finally came to the place on one award that we thought the only way out was to flip a coin, but a little detective work finally brought out some new points that seemed conclusive in favor of one nominee. Despite the hard work involved, though, I am glad to have had part in making the award, for it proved to all of those on the committee that many of the students of Smith-Cotton work hard and unselfishly for the betterment of student body and school of which they are a part."

Dr. Gullett To Face A Narcotics Charge

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 27—(AP)—Dr. Harry Gullett, 50-year-old Harrisburg doctor, was bound over for trial in Boone county circuit court on charges of selling narcotics after a preliminary hearing today before Justice L. W. Byars.

Prosecuting Attorney Edwin C. Orr said the trial, at the June term of court, would be the first under the 1937 state narcotics act.

Dr. Gullett's bond was fixed at $7,500, the same as set at the arraignment May 4.

Axis Prepared Says Nazi Paper

BERLIN, May 27—(AP)—The Berlin-Rome axis is determined to "meet at the right time the dangers" of a triple alliance of France, Great Britain and Russia, Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz said.

The foreign office mouthpiece put forward this statement as diplomatic circles speculated on what form a German retaliatory gesture to a British-French-Russian alliance would take—there was no doubt there would be some gesture.

"There should be no mistake anywhere," Korrespondenz said, "that Berlin and Rome are not able to penetrate behind the phrases to actions and effects, or that a clear view and determination are lacking here to meet the dangers at the right time."
